WE NOMINATE

Raymond Edwin Robinson, 37-year old Californian, who this week — following a thoughtfully projected two-day symposium on the "Evolving Church and Its Relation to Music" — was formally inaugurated as fourth President of 45-year old Westminster Choir College. As this community paused in its collective labors to honor the College and the man it was apparent that the Trustees of the Choir College had found in Robinson the kind of "vigorous and talented young musician and educator" a privately sustained, and highly specialized, institution must have if it is to survive by reaching out to future generations in an era of "educational opportunity and community service."

A year ago, in succeeding the able and articulate Lee Hastings Bristol Jr., Robinson sounded the keynote for his administration in discussing for the guidance of his students and faculty "Higher Education in the 1970's." "Today's college student," Robinson said, "is more inclined toward action than was his counterpart a generation ago. The focus of education in the next decade must allow the student to participate legitimately in the social issues of the day, struggle with the real problems of racial prejudice, social and economic deprivation, self-government and, most importantly, develop a self-concept of service to others."

As the versatile Robinson, the father of four sons and a daughter and an Army veteran of the Korean War, sees it, the concept of service to others has from the very beginning in Ohio (and since 1931 in Princeton) "been central in Westminster's philosophy." "The Choir College," he stresses, was founded to train musicians for a life of service in the Church. Although its program has broadened in recent years to include training for service in the school, the thrust of its educational program has remained outward rather than inward. Today's student is seeking those spiritual values which will allow him to relate meaningfully to the society in which he lives."

To the Westminster Campus Robinson has brought a broad and varied background. During his six years at Baltimore's prestigious Peabody Conservatory of Music, where his responsibilities ranged from Professor of Music and Dean of The Conservatory to Associate and Acting Director, he was also a perceptive critic of music for the "Baltimore Evening Sun", editor of two church music publications and host or moderator for several outstanding television and radio series. The Westminster publicity office also, and most rightfully, notes that in 1969 Robinson produced the well-received "World of the Guita" for television.

As a composer Robinson has written and arranged the music for eight films and two well-known recordings. His interest in, and understanding of, church music are documented by his services over the past 16 years as director of music for six churches, the most recent being Fourth Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C., and Trinity Evangelical Church in Baltimore and including churches in Portland, Ore., Indianapolis, Ind., and San Jose and Monterey, Calif. Going back a few years farther, after his military service in the Far East, he was trained at San Jose State College (Calif.) and Indiana University.

For insisting that music must not fail in "relating to the people who are listening;" for calling upon his associates to broaden their horizons to "include our responsibility to our New Jersey neighbors in the Inner City, first, and then to the world-at-large; for endowing Westminster with the kind of "capable, farsighted leadership" any and all colleges must have; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

THE BIGGEST PUMPKIN OF THEM ALL! Over 80 pounds, anyhow. After a soap-opera script in which The Pumpkin was stolen from its snug nest under Dr. Alfred Cook's big pumpkin vine, then returned intact by a remorseful thief who read an aquiescent place in last week's TOWN TOPICS. The Pumpkin is now safe in Mrs. Christa Rougou's Riverside School kindergarten room. That's Kenny Varvel, peering over the top. Left is Jenny Craner and right is Ann Dreznar. School Board Considers Religious Issues

Is the Christmas tree strictly a religious symbol? This uniquely subject occupied the Princeton Regional School Board for well over an hour Tuesday night, as board members, gathered informally for agenda session, listened to several Princeton citizens pro and con the treatment of religious issues in the public schools.

Philosophy, theology, comparative religion, the black experience as analogous to the Jewish experience, almost — but not quite — how many angels can dance on the point of a pin? — all were touched upon, circled, examined, explored.

No firm decision. Indeed, the question probably won't even be brought up next Tuesday at the board's regular October meeting, he held at 8 p.m. in the Community Park School.

Dr. Henry Powner and Dr. William Marvel were assigned to work on a new draft of the board's policy on religion, drawing upon the comments of those who spoke Tuesday, and indeed anybody else who wants to write in a suggestion. Mid-November action is expected.

That board policy, drawn up by Superintendent Philip E. McPherson last year under board direction says that public schools aren't appropriate places for religious observances, although the historical development of religions can be part of a curriculum. The policy also speaks in general terms about school programs that adequately meet the needs of each child.

"The statement is too vague," protested Dr. Michael Aaron Rockland, 8 Madison Street, who spoke for most of the discussion. "I'd like to know what's been done to implement the policy statement." Dr. McPherson admitted that "very little" had been done. The superintendent, Dr. Rockland and board member William Abrams had discussed Dr. Rockland's concerns last May.

Dr. Tannerbaum? "What about Christmas trees in schoolrooms, for example?" Dr. Rockland asked, "and last year, my fourth grader was told by his art teacher that for one month, they were going to draw Christmas wreaths!" Actually, Dr. Rockland told the board, "There are really no great abuses here — Princeton."

ton is a better system than most, but it should be even better."

He commented on the growing practice of observing the Jewish holiday of Hanukkah as a parallel to Christmas. "Hanukkah is a third-rate Jewish holiday, blown up to try and equal Christmas," he said scornfully.

Dr. Rockland proposed a more positive approach, with a possible comparative religion curriculum as early as the lower elementary grades.

"Don't take religion out of the schools—it's important to teach children that people are different, that there are Hindus or Mormons or black Muslims."

He admitted that, aside from suggesting the study of comparative religion even for the youngest children, he had no specific program. Dr. Marvel joined him in his enthusiasm for comparative religion units.

Then Mrs. Rockland, smiling, identifying herself as "a Jewish mother," said, "My kid won't sing in the Christmas chorus, but maybe he'll be the only one. And at Esser, he'll come home and announce that the teacher said he didn't HAVE to take six dyed eggs to school, but everybody else did."

What is "Religion?" What about that Christmas chorus? Is singing the "Messiah," an aesthetic or a religious experience?

Princeton High School's choir gives a Christmas concert annually in the University Chapel (its orchestral accompaniment directed each year by Sylvan Friedman). Is this concert contrary to board policy?

Dr. Rockland then drew the parallel between the Jewish and the black experience, and he spoke of cultural genocide.

Mrs. Peggy Tyler, who is a dean at Douglass College, identified herself as a Presbyterian, more or less, seconded Dr. Rockland's parallel:

"As a black mother," said Dean Tyler, "I'm going to keep my children home on the birthdays of Malcolm X or Martin Luther King. Why should we celebrate the birthday of George Washington when he had more slaves than anyone else in his day? Observing his birthday isn't the American way of life black people want."

She then asked Dr. John Marks, board president, how to represent school children of black leaders' birthdays, and Dr. Marks then actually the Rev. Dr. Marks, and he quipped at least once from the New Testament) told her to write her suggestion to the board.

ROSES and RHUBARB

BY DON ALLEN

CYCLES...

I haven't lived in Hopewell all my life. I was born in Texas, but mostly I was raised in Hopewell and consider myself to be sort of a native son.

Growing up in this beautiful little country town was a pleasant experience for a young boy. My friends and I would spend the summer building and flying model airplanes. Then about this time of year we'd start searching for hickory nuts. The lovely woods surrounding this little valley town yielded up bins of nuts of all kinds. With the early frosts hickory nuts turned from yellow and signaled their location. I can remember the ground just being white with nuts. I've never seen them like that since. Hazel nuts used to grow on low bushes. You could hardly trek home with a bag of them as the hicks made such a heavy and for all that bulk, didn't really yield up that many nuts. We'd haul them in the woods, and by stringing them over our shoulder in an old onion sack would so stain our shirts and back with walnut juice that no amount of scrubbing would get them off. We'd dry them and peddle them from door to door for as a pound I don't know, which looked out first. Boys who peddled nuts or hickories, who lay face down, slept them and then bake a walnut cake.

Later on there was trapping. A buddy and I used to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning and go trapping off to our trap lines. We had always heard that come daylight, muskrats would chew off their legs and escape. We never found out, because we never really caught anything but if we had we were always out there in the blackness of night with our big five eelled flash light we were so proud of. Trapping for us, did not pay well, but these memories are precious.

One can only muse that looks back (and I have been) are not amused to that kind of industry. But I loved it, and can only relate it to my adult life. At Princeton I hung on my shins as a florist. I still set up at 4 A.M. Only now, I truck off to the Philadelphia flower market to be first in line as flowers start arriving there from all over the world. Same old early bird bit.

And how does a frost florist reflect his mind and spirit? Well he brings the fields and marshlands in all seasons and fathers wild seed poems and grasses. Nothing has changed very much. Instead of come home beautiful model airplanes, I fill my days working with fragile beautiful flowers.

Twenty years a florist. Yet sitting on the edge of my bed at 4 A.M. preparing for yet another trip to market I still shake my head in wonderment at the series of events that led me to this. It all seems so very unlikely.

But deep in my heart I know

Who Pays for Gym Shoes?

Princeton's school budget might have to be increased by $30,000 if the state board of education adopts a proposed new policy.

Some districts, says the board, are charging students for required activities as well as voluntary ones, for one thing. For another, many students can't afford to buy some of the required equipment.

The proposed policy would forbid schools to charge fees for any activity that's part of the regular curriculum. It would also require schools to pay for such things as gym and band uniforms, lockers and so on.

The $30,000 estimate was made Tuesday night at the school board's agenda meeting by William Evans. The state has asked for a report by November 10 itemizing the various fees and requirements.

Dr. Constantine V. Vland, school board member who is presently observed wryly that if the regulation goes into effect, school systems will have to discover that lots of things, like gym uniforms, maybe aren't necessary after all.

And Pumpkins? Turning back to Mr. Rockland's protests about drawing weights, board member Mrs. Evelyn Gaudin and staff member Dr. Constantine Vland both spoke scathingly of teachers who lean on pumpkins in October and hibernate in February.

Teachers use these pack age units on such things as drawn in or hearts and it's a way of not doing any work," charged Mrs. Gaudin.

Rabbi Herschel Matt of the

gested that it's impossible and unwise undesirable to eliminate any reference to religion

altogether, because it's partisic in the community. He said as regarded the school's guidelines as all right, but in need of specific implementation.

So no religion next Tuesday. The board will, however, decide.

• Princeton High's ski trip.

The calendar won't be changing as students had heard.

Kurt Bauman, student body

between Board and Student

Council, was asked to present

next Tuesday Student Council's reasons for refusing to support a ski trip. (Council resolved as a disciplinary against students who can't

• Driver education. It was learned the agenda session

skipped by this one altogether.

It will come up Tuesday, however.

• Winter in the Cities: A cooperative program with

Princeton University under way and under study will work in the schools. The University paying 80% of the salaries, the schools 20% for a school bill of $100 for each.

• Approval of texts. This annual usually comes at a matter of form after hicks have already been bought. I'd heard to raise the question of why the board should approve texts in the first place," observed Dr. Marks.

I agree heartily," said Mr.

Pike, "but it's state law."

THURSDAY, COUNTERTHURSDAY

These salaries, Administrators' salaries remained in the news this week as protagonists denied their positions.

William Abrams, school board negotiator with the administrators, opened Tuesday night's board agenda meeting

by telling the board he wanted to put "certain documents" in front of Opponents of the agreement have attacked Dr. Abrams for allowing the large raises.

He referred to the October 6

public meeting when board member Winthrop Pike ab-

stained from the vote, saying that he had a philosophical objection to an administrators'

union and also regarded the raises as too large. Dr. Abrams pointed out that Board member Philip Cruckshank agreed with Mr. Pike.

Dr. Abrams then said that, in executive session August 18, Dr. Cruckshank had moved, with Mr. Pike's assent, that salaries be limited to 20% with a 30% maximum. Conversion from a 10 to 12 month contract would be 120% of the 10 month contract.

The board approved the proposal by a 4-3 vote. Dr. Abrams said, with both Mr. Pike and Dr. Cruckshank supporting their motion.

"The total package. I was given orders to negotiate was therefore $255,750," he declared. "The package I brought in was $356,690, which is only 0.12% more, or less than 2c on $10."

Board members did not comment on Dr. Abrams' remarks.

Mrs. Kathleen Edwards, who also abstained on the final vote, explained she said she had abstained "from the onset of these negotiations. From May to October, 1970, I have been consistent in abstaining when not in full agreement with issues." She was criticized by fellow board member Henry Pownall last week for abstaining on the vote.

Mrs. Edwards, in a statement to the press, said that in increases in administrative staff were "unacceptable" to her because of Princeton's small enrollment compared with other New Jersey districts. She expressed concern about Princeton's ability to continue paying the salaries in future years, even though money for the raises was in the current budget.

She explained that she acted as she did "not as a union school employee, but to give board and community a chance to reassess values, education, goals and fiscal expenditures. Can this district afford such high paid employees?"

Last week, outlining the history of attempts at merit pay, Superintendent Philip C. McPherson stated that 18 months ago, in February of 1969, he held confidential, individual interviews with administrators to work out merit salary increases, taking into his confidence only the school board's finance chairman.

His confidential discussions began to be known around the community, the superintendent stated, adding that he told the board he could not administer when they had been made a political issue.

The finance chairman at that time was Winthrop Pike. Mr. Pike said this week, "I am not responsible for the leak."

A board member at that time, Dr. Harvey Rothberg, charged this week that "an ill-advised and clumsily handled action by the Superintendent caused the whole notion (of merit pay) to blow up in its own face and to become an embarrassing issue." It is seemingly and inappropriate for a Superintendent to seek to lay the blame for such a fiasco at the feet of others, when his own involvement and responsibility was central to the problem, and that of others (such as school board members) was peripheral and secondary," Dr. Rothberg declined to elaborate.

Hospital's Neighbors Ask Equal Treatment in Zoning Matters

If nurses can be roomers in houses owned by Princeton Hospital, why can't other people be roomers in houses owned by private citizens?

Besides, everybody else takes in roomers, so why not Bernardino Toto?

Mr. Toto lives at 88 Harris Road. His plight was described in eloquent detail Monday night to Township Committee by his neighbor Len diDonato, 27 Harris Road.

A native of Italy who came to Princeton years ago to make his home, Mr. Toto is declared Mr. diDonato, "a victim of Princeton's Golden Ghetto."

With three children in Notre Dame High School and college looming ahead, Mr. Toto decided to augment his groundskeeper's salary by converting his large garage to two rooms. Roomers only, no cooking and no apartments. He obtained a building permit and went ahead.

The practice is common along Harris Road, Mr. diDonato said. But it's illegal under the Township's zoning law. A neighbor, but assuredly not a friend, wrote the Township building inspector an anonymous letter, ratting on Mr. Toto and commenting, according to Mr. diDonato, "These Italians are getting away with too much."

Variances Ignored. "Princeton Hospital, in that very neighborhood, has been buying up houses and turning them into rooming houses for nurses without any variances," Mr. diDonato charged.

"I never thought it was against the law to rent a room," Mr. Toto himself told Committee. "People all over the neighborhood, they do the same. I got three kids in Notre Dame and I want education for them. Maybe I got to sell my house."

Joseph R. Nini, Township Administrator, said he and W. J. Shinn, the building inspector, had extended a November 1 deadline to January 1, giving Mr. Toto until that date to "cease and desist." The deadline was actually extended to benefit Mr. Toto's tenant, a Westminster Choir College student who would have no place to go if he were evicted now.

Committeeman James A. Floyd said the Master Plan gives Princeton Hospital unlimited use of its property so long as a "clear need" exists.

Garage Planned. Mr. Floyd then referred to a two-story garage proposed by the hospital on Henry Avenue, which right angles with Harris Road, and he said the hospital was still making overtures to remaining home-owners on the block. The committeeman, who also lives on Harris Road, said he'd seen hospital personnel apparently living in one of the houses the hospital has purchased.

"Isn't it illegal for the hospital to convert a home to a nurses' rooming house without site-plan approval?" asked Mayor John D. Wallace. Attorney Gordon Griffin said he'd research the question.

'Let's 'stay' the action of

YOU CAN ALWAYS COUNT ON CHANGE: Princeton Hospital nurses are appearing in white pants suits these days. Above (at left) is Mrs. Linda DeCastillo, R.N., on duty in the coronary unit with Miss Jeanne Hoffman, G.N., who's wearing the traditional uniform. It all began with the women technicians in the laboratory and radiology departments and has the straggled approval of Miss Jean A. Alto, assistant administrator for Nursing Services who has let it be known that it's "a decision to be made by the individual nurse." Mrs. DeCastillo, a graduate of Bellevue Hospital School of Nursing, has had special training in the care of coronary patients, Miss Hoffman, an alumna of Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, is taking special training in Princeton's 4-bed coronary unit where heart patients are under continuous electronic surveillance.

the building inspector," proposed Committeeman Dean Chace.

"Can't we, in the long run, allow conversions like this?" asked Committeeman Thomas Hartmann.

"It's a social problem for us all," commented Mr. Nini. "The new Residential Zone ordinance next year will recognize these practices of renting rooms and re-zone accordingly. The Township zoning law will consider rooms, apartments and conversions and thereby hope to solve this problem in the very near future."

"What did they decide about me?" Mr. Toto asked Mr. diDonato.

"You can hold off until you hear further from Committee," he replied.

In a similar case, Mr. diDonato reported that a relative on Cleverview could not, without a variance, finish his unit with a pair of bedrooms because his small house would then violate the floor area ratio.

tion of the zoning law. "And it costs about $200 for a lawyer to try for a variance, plus he's got to get an architect," Mr. diDonato charged.

Walk on the Table. A 700-foot strip of sidewalk between Brachrum and Leabrook on Snowden has been on and off Committee's table for some time. It was tabled again Monday night.

Sidewalk costs are borne half by the Township, half by the property owners. T. H. Sares, tenant of property at 230 Snowden, which would be assessed, said it wasn't legal to include in the assessment half the cost of acquiring an essential 85 foot strip of land.

"I'm not willing," said Walter Buttersworth, 230 Snowden, in agreement, "to pay half the cost of buying land and half the cost of cutting down a tree to put the walk in front of someone else's house."

Mr. Griffin said that in making assessments, the Township considered the entire project, and didn't break it down into various costs.

"I want to see exactly where, in the law, the Township is authorized to assess me for the cost of land acquisition," Mr. Buttersworth persisted.

Mr. Sares asked about a sidewalk Master Plan, and Mr. Floyd said he hoped it would be discussed by the Regional Planning Board before the end of the year.

Roads on the Map. To the Township's pleased surprise, the state has come across with more road aid than expected $34,000 for the widening of Alexander and $37,000 for The Great Road.

In executive session, Committee decided against making public the Brennan Report as the police department. Committee member William L. Wilson, who is police commissioner, said last week that "in pure innocence" he had inadvertently talked about the report with Republican candidate Charles Meyer.

Some Democrats had charged a "leak," but Democratic candidate Jay Riemann had said he didn't want to make an issue of the matter.

It was raised Monday night by Mr. Floyd who suggested Committee discuss in private the question of making the report public. The decision: no.

The site plan ordinance's expiration date was removed, leaving the ordinance eternal life.

The ordinance allowing bars and liquor stores to be open Election Day was passed with out opposition.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED
In Delaware River Canal. A 1969 Chrysler sedan, stolen Thursday from New York City, was recovered the next day by Township police from the waters of the Delaware River Canal off Harrison Street.

The front end and entire left side of the car had been damaged and police judged it a total loss. The radio, hubcaps and a tape recorder had been stripped from the car. Detective Norman Servis said that police in New York's 76th Precinct, which reported the car stolen, are still trying to establish the owner.

Pt. Joseph Mazzotta and Pt. Anthony Gaylord were met at the canal by Paul Groat of the Princeton Water Company and university students John Chitty and Frank Hottelker, who discovered the car. It was submerged in the middle of the canal on the west side of the Harrison Street bridge.

The car was removed by a rescue truck from Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and towed to the Township parking lot.

Mark R. Parsells, 17, 36 Princeton Avenue, paid two fines, $15 for careless driving, and $10 for no license in possession. Paying fines of $12 each were Alexandra H. Moore, 19, 210 Mountain Avenue, Urtum, and Catherine H. Elsworth, 49, Princeton Hightstown Road, red light.

APARTMENT ENTERED

Estimated 500 Students Plan to Campaign during Moratorium

Princeton University this week begins its two-week moratorium on class exercises to permit interested undergraduates to participate in the 1970 Congressional elections. In contrast to the high degree of enthusiasm which swept the campus last spring, when the plan was first devised, however, the Movement for a New Congress now estimates that less than one out of six undergraduates (500 out of 3200) will spend the coming fortnight campaigning for a candidate of their choice.

Commenting on the degree of apathy, The Daily Princetonian estimates that it may stem in some measure from "the emotional drain of last spring, and the burden of postponed examinations and papers" serving to distract students from national politics. The college paper points also to President Nixon's willingness to end the war by withdrawing from Cambodia and by reducing the number of American troops in Vietnam.

The Princetonian editorial urged members of the student body to spend at least a portion of the moratorium working against Congressional candidates running on the Nixon platform. "The President says that the war is 'winding down,'" the Princetonian says, "so everyone ignores the fact that almost two years after he entered office, huge numbers of Americans are still in Vietnam. His Attorney General says that Mississippi blacks are in '100% integrated' school districts, and everyone ignores the fact that only about 25% of those black children are in integrated classrooms."

The editorial concludes: "President Nixon is the worst sort of self-serving Whig Clio politician magnified on a scale that is almost unimaginable. If he succeeds in organizing the Senate, the Supreme Court will be in conservative hands faster than you can say Harold G. Wells, and the United States will be in for a very unfortunate, Agnew-esque period of politics."

"The Nixon Republicans must be stopped, and they can be. Student campaigning will help. The Movement for a New Congress, whose candidates have been successful in two-thirds of the primary votes, can tell you where you can be most useful in stopping the Nixon Agnew drive for Congressional support. Go and ask. Give a few days, either here in New Jersey or in your home state, to electing a New Congress. The American political system has been very good to Princeton University, and to its students. Now that the system is in trouble, it is time for students to repay the debt."

(This is the fifth in a series of political ads explaining county government and how Republicans will try to better it.)

WHAT IS A POLITICAL MACHINE?

- A political machine is defined in the dictionary as a political group that is bossed and run by a clique. Look it up.
- A political machine when too long in power becomes non-responsive to the problems of people. Ask those who try to reform it.
- A political machine perpetuates itself for the few — not for the many. A good example is the present Democratic controlled Freeholder Board.

Help beat a machine that has been in power for more than twenty years. ONLY by electing all three can our county government become visible and responsive again.

ONE OF MY SONS: Robert Blackburn as Chris, wants to marry Ann (Mader Grant) who used to be his dead brother's girl. It's all in Arthur Miller's "All My Sons," now in repertory at McCarter.

News Of The THEATRES

REPERTORY OPENS
With "All My Sons," billed in McCarter revival as an "anti-war" play, Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" is not so much again, at war itself as against a philosophy that places money and business higher on the scale of living than honesty and human life.
"All My Sons" opened the 1970-71 repertory season Friday night and will play in repertory through November 27.

Arthur Lithgow has directed a serious, straightforward production of this serious, indeed, profound, and rather pontifical play. The single realistic set by Bill McKelvey shows a middle class, middle west porch and backyard belonging to the owner of a prosperous small factory. Costumes by James Edmund Brady are from a neutral tan brown palette. We are in a world of everyday, common people.
Someone in Joe Keller's factory, Joe himself or another? He backs to slip by during World War II and so 21 pilots died. Money is important when you own your own business, and fiercely important if you're a self-made man like Joe. But equally important is Joe's belief that he did it all for his son, Chris. And we ask, did he really, or is this self-delusion to cover his own greed?

I, LARRY ALIVE? Then there's Larry, the other son, missing in action. His mother, Kate, refuses to believe he is dead, tries to keep his girl, Ann, from marrying the surviving brother, Chris. And it's Ann's faith in who is serving a jail sentence for allowing the defective parts to pass factory inspection.
The strands weave in and out. In contrast to "Death of a Salesman," the generations in this play are at peace with one another, until truth and the clash between honesty and compromise shatter the peace.

For most of the play, indeed, the chief concern is Kate's anguished belief that her son still lives, and her determination to prevent the marriage between Ann and Chris.

And, as we said earlier, it isn't really much of an anti-war play. Chris speaks movingly, indeed almost sentimentally, about the selfless brotherhood of men who died for one another in battle, and if those 21 pilots hadn't crashed to the ground with their defective engines, they, too, would have gone on to kill.

But the point about "Practical Business" versus honesty and integrity is well-made, and in its turn, made with integrity. The man who laid the defective parts slip by is not a science-fiction villain but a warm, likeable, human being caught in the village of a false sense of values.

Robust and Real. In the role of Joe, Seymour Penner is robust and real — a Willy Loman who made it life. Durdity, Chae brings poignancy to the role of Kate. This actress has a keen eye for the minutiae of fading girliness that characterizes so many middle aged women.

Robert Blackburn's Chris reminds McCarter audiences a gam what a first rate craftsman this actor is. Mader Grant is pretty but mannered as Ann. Other members of the company portray neighbors of the Kellers' but have little to do other than speak Miller's good everyday American speech.

Effortless in a way, and painfully true and sincere. "All

"RAISIN" NEXT

For McCarter Repertory. Lorraine Hansberry's classic play about the life of a black family, "Raisin in the Sun," will be the second offering in McCarter's repertory season opening next Friday, October 30, at 8:30 p.m.

The role of Lena Younger, the mother, will be played by

Delores Martin who has wide experience both on and off Broadway, and in television. She was the original Necessity in "Finian's Rainbow"; took over the Pearl Bailey role in "Arms and the Girl" and was featured in City Center productions of "Kiss Me Kate" and "Carmen Jones."

In the role of her son, Walter, "Raisin in the Sun" will have Fred Morsell, who is also playing Dr. Bayless in McCarter's "All My Sons." A graduate of Dickinson College, Mr. Morsell was a member of the Actors Theatre in Louisville, and appeared this summer with Joseph Papp's Shakespeare in the Park.

Sylvia Soares will play Walter's wife, Ruth. Miss Soares appears also as Mr. Morsell's wife in "All My Sons." A member of the New York company of "No Place to Be Somebody," Miss Soares has also appeared in the off-Broadway productions, "Slaveship" and "Black Quartet."

Jan Davis, a sophomore at Livingston College, will appear as Beneatha Younger. Miss Davis was co-producer of, and actress in, a Rutgers production of "Hair" last year. She

IT'S NEW To Us

ITALIAN DESIGNS ADDED
By Nassau Shoe Tree. Very glamorous shoes by Italian designed Rosina Fattigara Schiavone are now at the Nassau Shoe Tree on Palm in E. Square.

Sra. Schiavone, whose home base is Florence, is world renowned in the shoe business today. She is also the designer of the Miklos shoes, made in her factory in Greece.

For a very dressed up evening she offers silver kiddie pumps with a slim band of rhinestones at the base of the heel and around the throat of the shoe. (Also in gold kid skin.)

Her pumps come with the new, slimmer heel, such as the rich brown kid skin with an amusing crisscross of lacing at the back of the shoe. Or, switching interest to the shoe front, she stitches on a black moon of snakeskin on a black kid pump or squares of narrow gold chain over the toe of a pump of fine black patent with a suede heel. Her designs are different, and you'll enjoy them.

The evening shoes from Nassau Shoe Tree appeal to a wide range of tastes and the time to explore them is now. One of the most unusual has a crystal-studded strip of transparent lucite inset across the toe of a silver kid pump. Made by Gaminis.

From Hill and Dale come many attractive ideas, elegant and understated. Black, for instance with an inset of dark silver lame' over the toe and a satin pump in a gentle beige gold shade, accented by a soft velvet bow. (Also in black, and both with the thinner heel.) And pen de soie in black or navy with an edged self buckle, or, for certain types of dresses, hatterail in a gunmetal shade, with a touch of scallop trim at the front.

The evening shoes range from pale, pale gold to a me with an up-front fold of fabric over a half buckle of glitter, to Jacques Levine's scanty sandals of braided satin or gold kid.

Among the cocktail time shoes, you'll find a sand tone suede and hatterail by Palazzo, with the front scallop rimmed in a tiny edge of gold. There is a matching purse. And Mademoiselle's brown oi-gnator patent with the most attractive front of beige suede that is almost an old-fashioned spot. There's a small gold buckle on the outer side, and the shoe has a round heel. From Gaminis, an attractive pump of tortoise patent, cut rather low, with a brace of gold across the instep. (Also in black kid.)

Before you leave the Nassau Shoe Tree, have a look at the very slick little shoes designed especially to wear with pants suits. They are made by Garesse Umberto Paganini, and Old Maine Trotter. There are many, many designs to choose from.

And if you've wondered where to get the new tight boots, the Shoe Tree has them. "Golebouts" wet-look in a stretchable crinkle patent. They fit up to your knee like skin. There's a weather-tight snow boot with the good, tight look. And many more!

THE CASUAL LOOK

At The Reynolds Shop. When you are next in Pennington, look right drop by at the Reynolds Shop and find there just the simple classics that you've been looking for. The shop has added the Geist & Geist wool knits - chic, well-made jackets, skirts, pants and heavy ribbed sweaters. They're a mix'm match line in a light but firm knit. If your size is not available for you, Reynolds will order for you.

The Geist double-breasted black jacket with a self belt goes with any number of pants in your wardrobe. The sweaters are tweeds, with a roll collar and feature narrow ribbing from the waist down. On the fine knit tops, crew necks above interesting, colorful stripe arrangements of black white and grey, for instance, or gold, yellow and brown.

The Glen of Michigan clothes at the Reynolds Shop include a smashing long skirt of huge patches of solid black and white interspersed with grey tweed. There's also a dashing cape of this fabric.

From Evyn Piccone, poetic velvet jackets in brown or deep blue, single-breasted style, with a center vent in the back. Also camel toppers for outerwear with leather button accents and a half-belt in the back. ($55) The Piccone pants are in menswear tweeds.

We liked the wool skirts by Deans of Scotland in rose and sand tweed cut in a simple A-line. The skirts come in

Native Crafts

Harbingers of the international show that Gallery 100 is planning may be found in the gallery's "big, cup boards," which this week holds a number of small gift items such as carved throw figures from Nigeria, a black hippopotamus letter-opener from Tanzania, Czech straw dolls and glass necklaces, Pakistani prayer beads and necklaces of crushed stone.

All modestly priced.

any number of colors and are very wearable. ($20)

Perhaps the prettiest ideas for casual wear come from the Shapely company. Their Askaris in heather tweed can be matched with patterned blouses that incorporate the exact tone of the skirt in part of the print. (Shirt $12 skirt $12). There's a tab that the Shapely people will monogram free.

For the polyester that is washable; the skirts are of a polyester-rayon that looks for all the world like wool, and the blouses have a cotton look, but they're polyester, polyester, too.

We saw very attractive nightie and housecoat sets at The Reynolds Shop, and you might just square away a Christmas gift or two before the crowds come. A very beautiful, broad stripe robe in periwinkle blue is trimmed at the collarless neck and waist in matching satin. Choose either long or shortie. The gown is nylon tricot with a wide, wide hem bound in satin. Slippers to match, too.

For the hospital-bound, Reynolds has shortie gowns cut in a shirt style with dim lines of late before the tailored collar. The matching robe is quilted. Everything washes and needs no ironing.

In passing, we'd like to remind you that cruise things are coming into the Reynolds Shop. We were intrigued by the hand blocked, mushroom sea life and other designs on the denim-look, wrap around skirts. Choose blue, or rose or pale green. The trawlers are etched in white.

MUSIC In Princeton

JANET BAKER SINGS

Her Artistry Is Pleasing. On Monday night, Series I concertgoers heard Janet Baker, mezzo soprano in her return to the McCarter Theater stage. She was last heard in Princeton in March of 1968 before a Series II audience. At that time her accompanist was Martin Isopp; this time, Joan Newmark was at the keyboard. Miss Baker's program consisted of arias by Handel and Purcell, lieder by Schubert and Beethoven and French art songs by Debussy and Fauré. Gotthard's "Serenade" on a text by Victor Hugo culminated the program.

In appraising Miss Baker's artistry at her previous Princeton concert, this reviewer commented on her ability to sustain a soft almost subdued tone over long stretches of melody while producing a powerful falsetto in the more dynamic passages of her programmed material. Hearing Miss Baker's voice again two years later only reaffirms this writer's first impression. She possesses a keen instinct for the expression of the act song medium. Whether she renders French, German or English Baroque music, she always presents them in style and with new meaning.

Her interpretations of Schubert lieder are magical moments, whether it be the ghostlike poutiness of "Schubert's" or the satirical fancy of the opera stylized aria in "Epistle." Her breath control is phenomenal; the foundation of any good singing mechanism. Miss Baker has mastered this fundamental skill to such an extent that she almost always appears to have reserve breathing space to carry a line off to its natural and rewarding climax.

The "Chansons de Bilitis" on poems by Pierre Louys by Debussy displayed Miss Baker in the art of the "sotto voce" which she so successfully executed in her previous Princeton recital. These splendid miniature music fragments of delicacy, reminding one very much of the great opera, "Pelleas and Melisande," by the same composer, were elegantly portrayed by Miss Baker.

Every nuance was reflected in her singing while the warm sonorities of the keyboard complimented the vocal line. Mr. Newmark did a yeoman's job here, but was considerably wanting in the Schubert cycle, where his pianism sounded hard and brittle at times and sloppy at other places.

Many mezzos have difficulty in the upper register of their voices and Miss Baker was not without an occasional edginess in her higher tones, but her control tone is powerful and subtle when it needs to be. In the two recitals Miss Baker has presented in Princeton, neither included music of our time or even close to it. This is not to detract from Miss Baker's abilities.

Obviously she finds the great works of the past more compatible with her instrument, or could it be that her management feels audiences prefer earlier music to the new creations of our time? There has been a rebirth of exquisitely beautiful vocal writing in the last ten years and this should interest both performer and audience alike if they could only become more exposed to it.

Nadia Koutzen Acclaimed. Last week, this reviewer attended a recital by Nadia Koutzen, violinist, with Marion Zarzema at the piano. The program which included works by Stravinsky, Bartok, Lopatnikoff and Debussy, was sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton and was held at 10 McCosh Hall.

the great new styles for youth, and Up To You has some very tasteful examples. In navy, for instance, with a complex design in white for a full 10" above the hem. Or with a lavender design and short fringe stitched into the side seams. (Around $26) Wear them as dresses or with pants.

The boys as well as the girls buy the shop's jeans, we found. Nearly are goucha pants in navy blue, wide waist corduroys, and short jackets to wear with mids. And peasant dress nighties in turtlet (S10).

From Pakistan, pants in lavender, light green and blue print, and from Charlie's Girls, square necked short-sleeved sweaters, horizontally ribbed up top and vertically from the waist down.

Up To You has jewelry and scarves from India, over the shoulder bags in heavy wares, knitted ponchos from Brazil (about $14 to $22) long wide cotton skirts with embroidered yardbuds ($12) and lots of shirts and tops, from three button cuffs to skinny rib knits. Take your young 'un over.

Most Pay for Rights-of-way.
A municipality can't require a developer to donate land for widening an existing street that runs along the developer's property.

That's what the Appellate Division of Superior Court told Princeton Township last week. But the Township thinks the issue is important enough to make another try. So the municipality will ask the New Jersey State Supreme Court to consider the case.

It all came about because Princeton Research Lands, Inc., headed by W. Bryce Thompson IV, objected last year when the Princeton Township Planning Board said PRI had to give the Township enough land to widen Mr. Lucas, Poor Farm and Herndon Roads in return for permission to split off ten acres from a 36-acre parcel. The ten acres is to be sold to Commodities Corporation. The strips of right-of-way totaled 3.33 acres.

Mr. Thompson went to court and lost when Judge George Barlow of Superior Court ruled in the Township's favor. In turn, Mr. Thompson appealed and the Appellate Division last week handed down its unanimous, three-man decision.

Because the decision was unanimous, the Township doesn't have an automatic right of appeal to the Supreme Court. The municipality must Absent Election Day? Mark Ballot Correctly!

Carelessly marked absentee ballots last year threw the Borough's Councilman election into the courts. If you're going to be out of town November 3 — Election Day — you must apply for an absentee ballot and that application has to be in Trenton by midnight next Monday, October 26.

Your ballot will be sent to you, and remembering last year, both parties fervently hope you'll mark it right!

Ballot applications can be picked up at either Borough or Township Halls or at any party headquarters. Things to remember:

● If your plans change and you're in town on Election Day, mail in your ballot anyway. Election officials won't let you vote at the polls if you've filed an application for absentee ballot.

● Be sure you mark the proper municipality: four or five Borough and Township residents last year voted for candidates in the wrong municipality.

● Use the same tool — pen or pencil — throughout. If you mark part of the ballot with pen and part with pencil or with a pen of another color, your ballot can be thrown out. (The idea is, you aren't supposed to mark your ballot so that it can be identified in any way as yours.)

● Mark the square with a check, X, or plus-sign, and be sure your mark is IN THE SQUARE. Don't let your pencil flourish so that you mark more than one square (two people did this, last year.) If you're splitting your ticket it's possible to touch as many as three squares.

● If you're voting a straight ticket, mark the square for each candidate. Don't just check "Republican" or "Democratic" at the top of the column figuring you've touched all bases.

ask the Supreme Court to hear the case; which the court may or may not grant.

Both Mayor John D. Wallace and attorney Gordon Griffin regard the case as important to the municipality. "Suppose," the mayor said at a press conference this week, "a major development were proposed for a narrow road. We couldn't require the developer to donate land for widening the road to accommodate the traffic and let himself would generate."

The mayor cited the widening of Herndon Road with construction of the new Princeton Nursing Home, and construction of Stuart Road along with housing built by Stuart Country Day.

The land can still be acquired by a municipality but will now have to be paid for.

"They will have to buy what they've been getting by extortion," stated Gordon Strauss, attorney for Mr. Thompson.

Mayor Wallace said he thought some developers would continue to dedicate road widening rights-of-way anyhow, knowing the road couldn't take the traffic they would generate.

Joseph R. Nini, Township Administrator, pointed out that the township has already been obtaining free from Princeton University the land needed for the piece-by-piece widening of Alexander Street. The University has agreed to give the Township the land, as needed. Mr. Nini said, and the Township doesn't expect any problems traceable to the new decision.

The ruling applies only to the sad widening of existing roads. In the decision, Appellate Court judges said that a municipality may require a developer "to establish an off-site street and pay his share of its cost."

This is a direct outgrowth of the Township's own Longridge Builders case. The Township lost that case in 1968 when the Supreme Court ruled that, under the existing ordinance, the Township couldn't make Longridge extend a road outside its own development. So the Township passed a new ordinance which ruled that requirement. Now the Township finds Longridge quoted in judicial decisions.

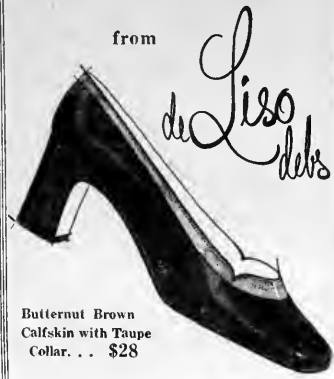

"We lost that battle but won the war," smiled Mayor Wallace.

Cost of filing for the writ of certiorari will be between $500 and $1,000, estimates Mayor Wallace. The Township has, in its 1970 budget, $20,400 for legal fees. The money had been set aside to go to court with Mr. Thompson, with Houghton Gaston, which wants to build an apartment in the flood plain on Lower Alexander Street, with the Princeton Shopping Center on site-plan review, with the Thonet Corporation (that one dissolved on the solution of the post office problem) and with Coleman Linker, a Lawrence resident of Browner Lane Road who protests plans for a Loop Road, and further various tax appeals.

When was the last time you had a glass of fresh orange juice?

With the Salton Electric Citrus Juicer, you can squeeze real fruit juice (orange, grapefruit, lemon, or lime) as easily as opening a can. A twist of the fruit on the cone sets the Juicer in motion. You simply hold the fruit. The Juicer does all the squeezing. For small amounts of juice and bar use, squeeze and pour from the handy Mini-Juice Cup included.

A Guide

Second Edition

Compiled by Helen Van Zandt with Jan Lally

72 pages incl. 144 illus.
Cloth $5.00, Paper, $1.95

This is the latest, most complete guide to the campus. First published in 1964, it has now been updated to include new buildings such as the Jadwin Cage, the computer center, and the mathematics physics complex.

Yesterday (10/19), there were only two buildings not complete. Nassau Hall and the Dean's House. Today, there are 120 buildings on 200 acres of main campus reflecting the tastes of generations of Princetonians. It's all in the Princeton University Campus: A Guide.

A Hot Line for Youth to Start Friday

Princeton's young people will be able to talk to an objective, sympathetic and anonymous listener about their problems when the Hot Line, a phone-in center affiliated with the Council of Community Services, goes into service this Friday. The number is 924-1141.

The line will be manned from 7 p.m. to 4 a.m. Thursday through Sunday each week, by a group of professional workers available to give advice and help primarily to junior high and high school age youth. The council hopes that the Hot Line will be a flexible, dependable and non-threatening resource that young people will recognize as being for them.

The need for such service has long been recognized by the Council's Youth Concerns Committee. It has grown directly from the interest of a group of citizens who began in August to plan the Hot Line. The committee has been collecting information on community services, counseling problems, New Jersey laws affecting young people, and other resource material that would help answer factual questions. The volunteer listeners have been participating in training sessions providing background information and preparing them to respond better to individual needs expressed over the phone.

CLOSE EDWARDS PLACE?

"NAIVE EVEN TO THINK ABOUT IT"

There was a little bit of everything at last week's Borough Council meeting, an appeal by residents to close Edwards Place, changes in parking and speed limits, a review of past problems (deeper answers), a preview of a problem to come (commuters' use of parking meters at the Penn Central station), a citation to the police chief, a commendation to six volunteer members of the Site Plan Approval Committee, approval of a recommended use variance, appointment and reports, and it all was wrapped up in two hours.

Half of the evening was devoted to a give and take between the board and nine residents who wanted the Borough to close off Edwards Place. Edwards Place is one block long and is a dead end on the north side and two hour parking on the other.

Mailman James Jr. of 10 Ed Edwards, who lives just off a riding, told the board that Edwards Place was not an ordinary place. The kids who live there know that it is "no Nassau Street," he said.

He told the board he was concerned for the safety of children who live there because of the number of motor vehicles who come in a "remarkable speed," thinking they can drive through. To Alexander Street Officers brought out that the problem was compounded by heavy traffic generated by the University Store parking lot at the entrance of the street. In the meanwhile, of course, "No Outlet" signs are posted and he is parking on the street. He also mentioned that the problem was compounded by heavy traffic generated by the University Store parking lot at the entrance of the street. In the meanwhile, of course, "No Outlet" signs are posted and he is parking on the street.

"To close the street off completely, it's naive, even to think about it," said Chief Peter J. McMahon, who pointed out it had to be kept open for fire and service vehicles. The more precise "Dead End" signs have been placed by state law for the past 10 years.

A proposed parking ban was vetoed at once by one of the residents.

It's obvious there was no easy solution, commented Mayor Robert Casley. In the end, he promised that the Borough could add "No Through Street" signs to the "No Outlets" signs. He also said he would ask Princeton University to see what it could do to alleviate the situation.

In August, the Traffic Safety Committee, with the backing of the Site Plan Approval Committee, had tried to get the U.S. State to make the majority of its lot a two-way entrance and exit. The University objected and in September the Regional Planning Board upheld the objection.

Traffic Changes. The board then turned its attention to a number of parking and speed limit amendments. It banned parking or stopping on Wall and Laine between Franklin and Guyot; on the east side of Murray Place and Harrison.

Disappearing with the State. Highway Department's recommended speed limit increases for Mercer Street, Council approved a limit of 35 between Lavers Lane and Hibernia, and 30 between Hibernia and Nassau. Five miles slower than the state wanted Council agreed the 25 mile limit was not realistic.

It also did not go along with the state's recommendation to increase the speed on Washington Road from 25 to 30 miles an hour, referring it to the Traffic Safety Committee. It agreed with a recommendation to reduce the speed on Harrison Street, which will be 30 miles an hour except for a 50 mile an hour stretch between Patton Avenue and the Hook & Ladder firehouse.

Council also approved an ordinance providing for turning lanes and crosswalks required by the state for the light at Harrison and Hamilton.

In other action, Council approved a recommendation from the zoning board that a use variance be granted Dr. Peter D. Manno, who was unable to convert the required 10 ft. street parking spaces to convert a double house he has purchased at 1214 Vandewater into apartments and an office for himself. The life interest of the present owners expires, annoyed the appointment of Richard Condit to replace Mr. Jean French on the Shade Tree Commission and that of William Walker, 24 to replace Norman Williams on the so-called Loop Road Committee. Award of awards to Mayor Steven M. Rasmussen and William Radweller, Roy Woods and Tom Johnson, volunteer firemen, for their role in rescuing 10-year-old James Howley from a fire on Rutland Street last February, and is referred as Mayor Casley reported that Council would discontinue the impact on commuters of plans to install 50-cent a day meters on University Place near the railway station.

Commuters have protested to Council that the fee was excessive and would reduce commuters' ability to park.

to the station. The "Dinky" to the point where it would be abandoned by Penn Central. Council had held up purchasing the meters, pending further information from the University concerning its plans for the development of the Inver University Place area.

Still in Violation. Councilman James Andrews, who has the public works portfolio, reported that the aging Princeton incinerator continues to be in violation of the state's air pollution code. Our present status expires November 5," he said. As long as we continue to press for a solution to try to meet standards, I think the state will give us time to do it. We're not the worst offender by any means but we don't want to operate that way," he added.

He told Council that Princeton could trim its solid wastes in Ewing's modern incinerator, which can burn it cheaper than we burn ours. But we have to go back and get the prodder because Ewing has limited landfill and this raises costs considerably.

A detailed study of landfill here is needed, he said. "We're not sure how useful it is; it has a lot of rocks." Such a study, he warned, would take about nine months and cost as much as $26,000.

McCrohan Honored for 35 Years as Policeman

Somewhere you just expect an Irish cop to be big, have red hair and sound off now and then. Pete McCrohan is all of these.

He's over six feet and the red hair is mostly silver now.
When he sounds off, it is often between clenched teeth holding a pipe, and the voice becomes raspy. Because he believes when a person has broken the law, he should pay for it, he isn't loath to air his pipe about suspended sentences.

More importantly Pete Mc-Crohan has been a good cop for a long time, and last week Borough Council gave him a watch in honor of his 35th year as a member of the Borough force. That's a lot of years — more than one hundred, 103 million, and Police Commissioner Robert Hendry who presented the watch to him (it's been Chief Peter J. McCrohan for the past nine years) took note of that when he quipped: "Even politicians don't last that long."

Obviously enjoying his task,
Mr. Hendry after tracing Pete's advancement through the ranks (he's held every job in the department) commented: "He serves Princeton on a 24 hour call basis."
Unlike some chiefs, Mc-Crohan's number is listed in the phone books for anyone to call him, and a lot of citizens do.

Then after mentioning that Chief McCrohan served as an athletic specialist in the United States Coast Guard, mistakenly at first attributing his service to the Marines, Commissioner Hendry paraphrased the Marine hymn, concluding, "From Nassau Hall to Chestnut Street to the shores of Lake Carn gie, you have kept our honor clean in many ways."

The presentation came as a surprise to Mr. McCrohan, who regularly attends all Council sessions. Last week, however, he wondered why his wife brushed his jacket off as he left the house, but he dismissed it. "By when I saw Lt. Carnevale at the meeting, I knew something must be up," he said.

"I Like My Job!" Saying
he was wearing a three-year old Times, Chief McCrohan told Council, in thanking them, that he was badly in need of a new watch.
"I've always enjoyed working for the Borough," he said. "I like my job and I love it. I can be here a few more years."

He wants, Mr. McCrohan, who came to the town head of the department who was formally organized in 1933, can stay on 13 more years until mandatory retirement. "If they also give a watch for his 35th year as a policeman, it's a nice touch for the Police Department."

Side from a year and a half he spent mostly at sea with the United States Lining to earn money to engineer a law firm. Mr.
McCrohan, now 57, has been a policeman for 35 years. He has watched the town grow and change, and like many of us a part of it as the tiger on Pine Street Square.

When Pete joined the force,
as a Special Officer in 1933 his salary for the first year was $300, then, when he was on the force, a picture taken a year later of the department and Borough officials in the force. A picture taken one of many that hang in his office. Of the 14 officers, only four are still living, including McCrohan's predecessor, Raymond Mondone. Although he is stout, it is still easy for one to pick out McCrohan in the photo.

First Radio Cars. On either side are two Ford patrol cars, the first equipped with radio, and two Indian motorcycles. "They were considered the best made in those days," McCrohan said. "Now they don't even make them any more."

As he glanced at the picture, he rattled off the names as if it were yesterday. He could tell where and when each one died. "This one was a great football player...
Played on Princeton's Team of Destiny." McCrohan himself won football and basketball honors in a post graduate year at Hun following his graduation from the old Princeton Preparatory School.

His knowledge of the town
as it was is all-encompassing.
It crops up often in his presentations when, for example, a building is mentioned and Pete will immediately add, "That was the old so and so building before they built a new one." Pete and McCrohan will add, "His father used to be..."

Perhaps that will be Pete's own legacy for a job well done. In future years some officer will say, "Now when Pete McCrohan was chief..."

NO HEALTH?

But Discussion Continues.
Towship Committee is still a solid, one-hundred, non-partisan percent behind a consolidated board of health for Princeton.

But Borough Council, said Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week, has decided not to invite the League of Women Voters to discuss its recommendation for consolidation. No formal person vote has been taken by Council, the mayor said, but Council is apparently not convinced on consolidation.

"The Township isn't getting state health aid and we are saying that's why they want consolidation," Mayor Cawley said.

The Township is too small in population to qualify for state money but the Borough gets to count West Windsor, which buys Borough services and so gets state aid.

"The big dilemma," said
Township Committeeman
Thomas Hartmann Monday night, "is should a governing body be consolidated?"

body go against one of its own boards?"

He meant should Committee ride roughly across the opposition of its own board of health, and pass a consolidation ordinance anyway?

Both Borough and Township Boards of Health are opposed to the League's merger proposals.

"The two boards are blind," Mr. Hartmann continued. "They are only delaying the inevitable. We should begin to think of broader regional health planning."

The Borough Board's four-page report on merger concludes by saying that merger is "inevitable" at some future time, but opposes it now, in part because of the difficulty of finding trained personnel and because there could even be an increase in paper work.

"Community-wide health planning" is not feasible, says the Borough board, "either with our present individual health personnel or with a consolidated board."

In a concurring letter, the Township Board of Health cites "no anticipation of real improvement in services" with merger, and the need for more employees if the boards were merged.

CAR, BUS COLLIDE

On Princeton-Kingston Road a 1970 sedan and a Suburban bus collided early Saturday afternoon on Princeton-Kingston Road near Dodds Lane.

A WALK IN THE WOODS: Republican Township Committee candidate Charles E. Meyer and his family study the map of Woodfield Reservation, off The Great Road. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, with son Mike and daughter Kappy, toured the area recently.

The driver of the car, Vincent E. Krunoski, Jr., 17, of New Brunswick, was treated at Princeton Hospital for lacerations of the face and fingers of both hands. Russell T. Park, Jr., 42, of South River, the bus driver, was treated at the hospital for a sprained ankle and burns of the fingers of his left hand.

Young Krunoski told police that a car in front of him had stopped suddenly, causing him to slam on his brakes. This caused his car to veer to the left, he said, into the path of the bus, coming in the opposite direction. He was charged by P.D. David Potts with failing to keep right.

The entire left front and windshield of the Krunoski car were damaged. Its undercarriage damaged, the bus was removed to Tiger Garage. The accident happened at 1:18 p.m.

Another Saturday accident—one at 12:15 p.m. on Washington Road near Faculty Drive—slightly injured three persons.

Joan E. Hummer, 50, of Little Silver, received a slight injury to her left knee, and her passenger, Anna B. Hummer, 84, was treated for a whiplash at Princeton Hospital. The second driver, Mary E. Mena, 22, of New Brunswick sustained injury to her mouth.

Both the Hummer and Mena cars were in a line of traffic on Washington Road, stopped for a traffic officer directing traffic entering the ROTC drive. The line moved forward and stopped again, causing the Mena car to strike the rear of the Hummer car. The latter was pushed into the rear of a car in front of it which left the scene, according to the accident report, because the driver did not want an investigation.

There were no charges by the investigating officer, P.D. John Hammond.

REPUBLICANS

On Campaign Trail: A Drug Task Force of law enforcement personnel from Borough, Township and University was proposed this week by Republican Borough Council candidates Charles Taggart and Van Skilman.

"The force would consist of men selected specifically for their interest and their work with kids," the candidates said. "We hope that funds will be forthcoming from the state level for the training of these men."

"There seems to be concern in the Borough over inconsistent treatment from the courts for drug offenders," the candidates stated this week. "We hope the Drug Task Force could achieve a rapport with the courts so that both could work together for the same goals."

In the Township, the Republican candidate Charles E. Meyer proposed a five-point program.—Continued On Page 20

Just in Time for Halloween

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Thursday morning brought me very happy smiles, squeals of delight and laughter from the children as well as the adults.

The "Great Pumpkin" had returned the missing pumpkin to "The Charlie Brown Pumpkin Patch." On Monday morning, the kindergarten children at the Riverside School had their picture taken with TOWN TOPICS photographer to record the happy event. The return of the missing pumpkin. Needless to say, without the aid of TOWN TOPICS, this could have never been accomplished.

The "Great Pumpkin" explained in a note to the children that he only "borrowed" the pumpkin to compare it with other "large pumpkins" and found this one from "Charlie Brown's Patch" to be the "most serious" pumpkin in all the world. He said that he was far all the trouble he caused, and said that he had found the pumpkin to weigh over 100 pounds.

The children at the Riverside School have saved the seeds from the other pumpkins (which was broken into two pieces) and are planning to keep "Charlie Brown's" plant there next spring in his pumpkin patch. The children would also like to offer "The Great Pumpkin" from the patch next year. So "Great Pumpkin," just ask and a pumpkin will be waiting for you next fall in appreciation for making a happy ending for all.

Fiscal Responsibility Essential

To the Editor of Town Topics:

There has been some confusion recently regarding the question of administrative salaries in the Princeton Regional School System. No one would dispute the premise that our salaries should be high enough to be competitive with comparable districts. The question of administrative salaries is (1) How the negotiations are conducted and (2) (and what) even happened to merit pay in Princeton.

It would be interesting to inquire of those conducting the negotiations for the Board this year how they understood their role, and what they considered to be their responsibility to the taxpayers, to the personnel concerned and to the school system as a whole.

Citizens who are beginning to think about possible School Board candidates should consider what kind of individual would be likely to handle the difficult task of salary negotiations most effectively.

Increasingly, and I think appropriately, the educational dimensions of a school system are being set by the teachers and other professionals. A principal role of the Board on the other hand, is to set the financial dimensions for the system, both in their budgetary and salary negotiation deliberations. They must do this with a sensitive appreciation both of educational needs and of tax payers' problems. A School Board needs more than a few years to handle financial matters in a responsible way.

HARVEY ROTHBERG

Editor's Note: Dr. Rothberg was involved in salary matters for the past five years as a member of the School Board, and helped to negotiate last year's salary guide for teachers.

C.A.R.E.S. Offers Alternative

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In a letter to the editor last week, Dr. Harvey Rothberg spoke of pro and anti school administration organizations foraging in the community. Let me point out that "Princeton C.A.R.E.S." has but recently formed, while the other organization has been in existence in one form or another, for several years.

One can take credit for any accomplishments we may have seen in Princeton education over the past few years. If there is polarization, they must accept some responsibility. For it was during their existence that the community split between the administration and some parents and taxpayers.

Princeton C.A.R.E.S. is pro children, pro teachers, pro education, pro parents and pro taxpayers. It is a very strong force in this makes us not of administration because obviously, this should not follow.

We expect the administration to be responsible and to establish practical measurements and techniques for new programs. We look for them to exercise restraint and fiscal responsibility. We ask that the administration strive for maximum efficiency and promote harmony through responsible reaction to community interest.

Princeton C.A.R.E.S. wants to offer the community an alternative which they have not enjoyed in the past, namely, a school board which will direct and guide the administration in these endeavors. Rather than promoting an artificial atmosphere of unity, we believe the voters have a right to know and choose their alternative.

My house overlooks Lake Carnegie. I have been awakened by duck hunters each October for many years. Yet today there is a difference from 20 years ago. In 1970 there are far more people in this area.

While the residents may not like the early morning noise pollution, they are also fearful that their children may be shot while at play in their own yards. One woman, living near Aqueduct, told me that her line of laundry was shot down, by mistake, by one eager duck hunter, a year or so ago.

The solution then, must come from the State of New Jersey. One answer would be to designate Lake Carnegie and adjacent parts of the Millstone River at both ends of the Lake And the Delaware and Raritan Canal as a bird sanctuary.

I hope that you will do this—or else come up with a better idea!

With congratulations for your accomplishments to date, I am

Put a Face on a Pumpkin and Win a Prize

The Princeton Recreation Department is sponsoring a pumpkin contest for Halloween and will offer prizes for the funniest, most terrifying and most original pumpkin. They will be judged by grade levels.

Those entering should place a card inside the pumpkin with name, address, telephone number and school grade. No one under third grade will be allowed to enter a cut pumpkin but younger children may use crayons, cut outs, temporapins and other similar materials for decorating.

Entries should be taken to the first aid room of the Princeton Community Pool between 2 and 5 next Thursday, the 26th. The recreation department recommends that contestants allow 3 days to work on their pumpkins. Any form of creativity may be used but no candles can be placed inside.

All pumpkins will be displayed at the annual Halloween program Friday night, the 30th. Additional information may be obtained from the Recreation Office at 921-9180.

gram, "to improve the environment."

Mr. Meyer calls for extension of the site plan review ordinance; increasing open space acreage; active support of regional efforts for waste disposal and incineration; the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority; expanded health activities, including drug education and pollution control and amendment of the zoning ordinance "to make it a stronger line of defense against deterioration of our environment."

WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

(And Where Should Loop Go?) Most of the traffic in the heart of Princeton either starts here or has its destination here. And "most" means 81.5%.

Only 18.5% of Princeton's traffic is "thru" traffic using Princeton as a corridor. "Thru" means new roads, like I-95 and the 92 A by-pass won't solve our problems," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley with some gloom.

The figures were released this week in Phase I of an Origin and Destination ("O and D") study of traffic in Princeton designed to measure the need for the proposed Loop Road (now known as "The General Mercer Drive") and to help determine the best Loop Road route.

The Loop is the road that has been proposed for years to loop the periphery of Princeton Township and encircle the Princeton heartland, drawing traffic away from the crowded center of town.

Survey Made A Year Ago
The study was commissioned by the Regional Development

Association from Tippetts, Abt, McArthur, Stratton and Engineers. The traffic survey it was made a year ago, in October, 1969, by Frank J. Quimbly & Associates, consulting engineers.

Early next year, Phase II will be released. This will project industrial and population growth to 1985, and "assign" traffic to existing streets and to new highways like I-95. The Association hopes this Phase II will solve some serious problems about where General Mercer should go.

Phase I's study showed, to the Association's considerable surprise, that Trenton is the largest single traffic generator for Princeton; in fact, Trenton might be called a "bed room community" for Princeton employees and shoppers.

Almost 11,000 trips that were headed for Trenton or leaving Trenton, were recorded at roadside interview stations. The next largest traffic producer is Hightstown, with 7,241 trips. (The smallest number of total trips comes from Monroe Township, which generated only four).

More than 20,000 interviews were conducted. A "cordon" was laid through the Township, tapping into Montgomery and Lawrence roads, outside the proposed Loop Road but not so far outside that a driver could escape by using another intersection.

All stations around this cordon, drivers were stopped and asked where they came from and where they were going. Of the drivers, 88% were passenger cars, and 11% trucks. Of the trucks, 24% were "thru."

The highest percentages of "thru" traffic on an average weekday, were recorded at stations on The Great Road between Mountain and Stuart; Quaker Road just south of Princeton Pike; Route 206 South just over the Township Line; and Route 206 north in Montgomery Township.

The highest percentages of "non-thru" traffic — that is, cars with origins and destinations right here within the cordon — were on Washington Road on the Princeton side of Lake Carnegie; on Harrison on the Princeton side of Lake Carnegie; and on Alexander Road.

Traffic varied more from time to time during the day than from day to day or week to week. Principal peaks came between 7.9 a.m. and 4.6 p.m., amounting to about 15% of the total daily traffic.

The Phase I study points out that because of these peaks it is difficult to make any kind of mass transportation that would succeed economically.

The Regional Development Association is the operating arm of the Regional Development Council, formed in May, 1967 as a non-profit corporation to coordinate planning in central New Jersey. Its trustees are representatives of Middlesex, Mercer and Somerset Counties, six municipalities, a few interested individuals, and representatives of Princeton University, Princeton Theological Seminary and the Institute for Advanced Study.

THERE ARE A LOT OF THINGS RIGHT ABOUT PRINCETON

"We have to be constantly alert to the programs that Princeton needs — a concerted effort to control drugs, a new regional incinerator, a creative solution to the parking problems, especially in the business area.

BUT

Above all, we must preserve the unique character of Princeton. Therefore we would insist on a strong enforcement of the zoning ordinance to preserve the residential character of the town and the attractiveness of the downtown area."

His opponent can't beat Thompy . . . but our apathy might!

Congressman Frank Thompson's opponent raises no issues of substance. He's not the problem.

The problem seems to be widespread unawareness of the critical issue of this election, and the importance of Thompson supporters helping him NOW to get these issues before the voters of the Fourth Congressional District. That means putting dollars where your

Here's why the dollars you send now could be the most important you'll spend in all of 1970:

Thompy's opponent vows to support his LEADER. If he should be (perish forbid!) a freshman congressman next term, you could safely bet your boots he'd HAVE to support his leader, right down the line — cutbacks in the fields of health and education, continuing neglect of urban decay, combined with increased spending for deployment of the highly suspect ABM system and the scientifically spurious Safeguard (the Defense Department's own Edsel), and untold millions for the Supersonic Transport to increase the noise pollution of our skies.

Thompson has fought for positive legislation, and against squandering our money on dubious hardware.

Right now he needs your dollars to tell

Why I Plan to Vote REPUBLICAN DEMOCRATIC

By Betty McClelland

Mrs. Richard McClelland, Pleasant Hill Road, is a twenty-year resident of Princeton. She has been active in the Woman's Auxiliary of Princeton Hospital, the Johnson Park P.T.O. and long-range planning Committee of Trinity Church.

It's a shame we can't afford to be apathetic. Fall comes, my boys go through culture shock as they return to school and have to wear shoes and comb their hair for a hard adjustment, indeed. I reluctantly release my summer daydream of peace and quiet once school starts as the phone rings continually with requests for my time, energy and enthusiasm. Amidst all of this, someone somewhere ordained the Fall for elections. It's so easy to ignore it but we can't.

Princeton is a lovely town and lovely things seldom happen naturally. It takes an enormous amount of work and dedication to keep this town developing in a way which will be of greatest benefit to all.

The Township Committee has done this kind of job and Jack Wallace has been a most outstanding mayor — which is the main reason this election is so very important. Committee men elect the Mayor each year. Charlie Meyer will vote for Jack Wallace, and without his vote Jack will no longer be Mayor. That is something I don't think anyone should be apathetic about.

Charlie Meyer has much to offer Princeton Township residents. He is the vice president of a large corporation and deals daily with the problems of finance and budgets. With Bill Wilson's retirement from Township Committee, we need someone to replace him with this ability.

His concern for youth, even though he was chosen to be a candidate has impressed me. As a mother, I feel that his knowledge of a drug problem and his statements as to his intent to make a major effort to combat it by charging the Board of Health to assume responsibilities in this field I believe is a great step in the right direction.

I believe that he has the background and experience necessary for being a great committee man. He is enthusiastic, hard working and dedicated. We need Charles Meyer as a committee man. We need Jack Wallace.

By William J. Brennan III

William J. Brennan III, lives at 45 Gallup Rd. with his wife and two children. He served as a Deputy Attorney General and then as an Assistant Attorney General under Governor Richard J. Hughes. He is presently a partner in the Princeton and Trenton law firm of Smith, Stratton, Wise & Heller.

I intend to vote for Jay Bleiman, and, not necessarily, because we are both Democrats. In recent years, I have voted for President Eisenhower, Senator Case, Governor Rockefeller, Mayor Lindsay and, more to the point, for Jack Wallace. In each instance, I have voted for the man and his program, and not for the political club he wears.

I think the most important single characteristic which a candidate seeking public office must have is his personal integrity. By this I mean the moral courage to confront problems and to provide the leadership to control them, even at unfavorable political risk.

The Princeton community especially needs public servants with the sort of integrity to which I refer. Our pleasant community has many emerging problems. Difficult as the solutions may be, they must be faced. We cannot ignore the pressures which are everywhere about us in the hope that somehow Princeton will remain as it always has been.

Jay Bleiman has a proven record of public and governmental service behind him. As Director of the Mid-Career Program at Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School, he can tap resources of expertise which can be of great advantage to our Township government. He has personal characteristics necessary for the position he seeks. He is dedicated to the preservation of the quality of life in Princeton. He is also committed to provide the leadership necessary to overcome the challenges that will face one of us in the years to come. He deserves your vote.

not generally reviewed, it must be recorded that Nadia Kuzen's violin artistry is on the highest levels: one that can be measured against an Erica Morni or even Isaac Stern. Her tone is brilliantly strong and vibrant.

She has a fantastic technique and performs all the music with a driving force that has to be heard to be appreciated.

All that, and Miss Zarzeczna's compelling pianism and you have two magnificent performers worthy of international acclaim. They perform at Alice Tully Hall this Saturday, October 24, in the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

The art speaker will be Victor D'Amico, director of the department of education at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. His topic will be "Art, A Human Necessity."

PHS FIGHTS POLLUTION. With $650 for Watersheds Ass'n, Princeton High students who collected $650 in their 1969-70 school drive have donated the money to the Stony Brook-Melville Watersheds Association to fight pollution.

To raise the money, they washed cars, held a music festival, organized bake sales and breakfasts. A significant part of the funds were raised in one week when several students collected "pennies for pollution" in the "help unpollute" cans presented to students in the lunchroom and on the lawn.

Many students took part in the drive to fight pollution. The car wash was sponsored by the Student Council; bake sales and breakfasts were largely the work of girls from the class of '73. The music festival was organized by Bob Carlin. In addition to the fund raising, the students took part in school and community clean-ups.

The students have asked the Association to use the money to build up their environmental education center. The center is to be used by teachers and classes throughout the Princeton area to learn about the environment and how natural resources can be best managed.

Growing West Windsor needs new leadership

Once West Windsor was primarily a farm community. And a few concerned citizens sat on the Township Committee and handled the affairs of the Township.

Now many of those farmers are growing split levels instead of alfalfa, colonials instead of corn. But for the most part those same citizens are still on the Township Committee.

And they just don't understand the new problems that growing West Windsor faces.

It's not entirely their fault. For decades, there were only Republicans on the Committee. With no Democrats to push them, they didn't have to come up with innovative programs. So they didn't.

This year there are two Democrats running for Township

Committee: Mike Greschak and Lance Marshall. Two men who have the kind of solutions to our Township's problems that will enable us to keep a good part of our rural flavor while we accommodate our rapid growth.

They've put in years of hard work for our Township, on the Board of Education, on the Planning Board. Now they want the chance to put that experience to good use on the Township Committee.

Vote for Greschak and Marshall this November. They're the best West Windsor has to offer.

Residents of the area, who have children at Littlebrook are invited to the Burfords' home to meet informally with Mr. Taylor.

HOW WILL MARS LOOK?

On flight in 1975, a Princeton University geologist is now in the early stages of designing an experimental package which, when flown to Mars in 1975, will be used to determine the presence or absence of magnetic materials on the surface of that planet.

Dr. Robert B. Hargraves, Princeton University geologist and Professor of Geological and Geophysical Sciences, is the head of a "Magnetic Properties" team, funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to lay the groundwork for the experiment. The package will be carried aboard the first United States soft-lander to Viking mission to Mars now scheduled for launch in 1975.

The Princeton experiment is but a small part of the overall mission, the primary purpose of which is to search for evidence of the past, present or potential existence of life on Mars. In addition to the biology, molecular analysis and imaging experiments, other instrument packages will record meteorological data and seismological activity.

In the initial stage of his research, Dr. Hargraves will ascertain the most efficient sizes, strengths, shapes and compositions of the magnets to be employed. Most likely he explains, the magnets will simply be attached to the feet and mechanical "arm" of the lander, in positions where they can be easily viewed by the two facsimile cameras (somewhat like ordinary television cameras) that Viking will carry.

Since any evidence of magnetic materials will be gathered solely through the "eyes" of the camera equipment, Dr. Hargraves' planned, careful consideration must be given to a magnet package design which will provide the greatest amount of visual data possible.

Temperature Extremes. Moreover, current planning must attempt to take into account the conditions likely to be met by the Viking Lander after it reaches the Martian surface. For example, he said, the great extreme temperatures on that surface (from 180 degrees F during the day to minus 120 degrees F during the night) may cause some rock materials to be magnetic when cold, but not when hot. If this is the case, and the transition temperature can be determined from the data transmitted by the meteorological experiment, the observer can reach certain conclusions about the composition of the magnetic material.

The detection and identification of magnetic materials on the surface of Mars would shed light on its mineral composition, and the degree to which surface iron has combined with oxygen.

Actually Dr. Hargraves pointed out, there will be two magnet experiment packages, since the Viking mission will consist of two spacecraft launched about 30 days apart. At the end of the one year journey, and 250 million miles from earth, both will go into Martian orbit.

After some orbital reconnaissance of the surface by the first spacecraft, the Lander will separate from the Orbiter and descend to the surface. The Orbiter component will remain above, performing experiments and relaying electronic communications between the Lander and scientists on earth. The second spacecraft will work in concert with the first, and will send its Lander to another location on the Martian surface.

Dr. Hargraves said that as the principal investigator of the magnetic properties experiment.

year continuation of the Dissertation Fellowship Program, which since its inception has received a total of $3,350,000 of Ford support.

Announcing the grant, Ford Foundation President Hans Rosenthal said, "This recent grant will enable an additional 400 graduate students in the humanities and social sciences to obtain their Ph.D. degrees in four years. The average of $3700 provided for a living stipend and research allowance frees doctoral candidates from financial pressure.

A tug of war between a student's intellectual needs and his financial necessity frequently thwarts his progress and prolongs his graduate study. The average Ph.D. candidate in the humanities and social sciences spends eight to nine years completing his degree."

The recent grant to the Dissertation Fellowship Program is part of a Ford initiative initiated in 1967, aimed at reforming doctoral programs. Direct grants have been made by the Ford Foundation to 10 universities in the United States and Canada. Fellowships are given to applicants who can complete a dissertation of high quality within the prescribed time limit. The winners are chosen by committees of distinguished scholars.

"The diminishing amount of federal funds given for fellowships increases the need for grants from the private sector," Dr. Rosenthal said. "Without such funds graduate education will not be able to maintain its standards."

Since 1967 Ford Foundation grants have made it possible for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation to provide funds to 291 Dissertation Fellows. They have been enrolled in graduate schools at 80 universities in 36 states and two Canadian Provinces.

CONSOLIDATION SET

By Two Republican Clubs. Mrs. Frank Reiche and Mr. Charles Grellhouse, Presidents of The Women's Republican Club of Princeton respectively, have announced that membership in either club will entitle members to the privileges of both. The change was approved by the two memberships in their annual meetings earlier this year.

One effect of the move will be to require but a single annual dues payment ($5 single, $6 family). The clubs will maintain their separate identities, officers and functions. However, news, activities and expenses will be shared.

Chairman of the joint Membership Committee is Mrs. Winthrop S. Pike, 924-1338.

COOK EXHIBIT PLANNED
At Present Day Club. Paintings from the brush of Peter G. Cook of Kingston will go on display next month at the Present Day Club. One of the top portrait painters in the country, Mr. Cook is represented nationally by Portraits, Inc.

Included in the exhibit will be some of the 100 portraits he has done in the last five years. Maine sea and landscapes will also be shown, many of them from the Wicasset area where he and Mrs. Cook have a summer home.

A 1937 graduate of Princeton University with an A.B. in architecture, Mr. Cook studied with John Polinbee of New Hope and later at the National Academy of Design and the Art Students League in New York. He has had numerous one-man shows, at Gallery 100 here in Princeton; in Boston, Palm Beach and Minneapolis. Among his commissions have been portraits of distinguished alumni of Princeton and Rutgers, as well as members of the United States Supreme Court.

Arrangements for this exhibit have been made by Ruth Ann MacPherson, art chairman of the Present Day Club.

Princeton Eleven Heads For Penn with Renewed Confidence

Hopeful that it can dominate second division candidates in the Ivy League, Princeton's football team heads for Philadelphia Saturday to seek its first victory at Franklin Field in four years. Two seasons ago, a spattering Tiger machine lost to Penn, 20 to 14, for its only defeat at the hands of the Quakers in the 60s.

While the 34-to-14 triumph over Colgate in Palmer Stadium Saturday was welcome evidence that a disastrous season will not follow the disaster at Dartmouth, Princeton is still not ready to play solid football. The offensive line often has all it can handle against run of the mill opposition, the passing attack lacks consistency and the defense has now given up yards in the air in its first four games. It is a credit to the Tigers' possession type running game that, despite an average of 200 yards yielded each Saturday to opposition passing, they have won three of their four outings to date.

Penn Has Its Problems. Note too well manned at the start of the season (only 15 letters returning), Penn ran into further trouble last week when four of its players quit, charging that the coach, Bob Odeh, "takes all the fun out of football." Obviously, there was a sufficient measure of discontent, so that a squad morale was adversely affected; in addition, one of the four to go was sophomore Ron Fawcett, at the time the team's leading running back. Phil Proccati, a junior who had the quarterback job most of last season, was figured to be the starter this fall but has let out to a senior, Patinho Meier, who wasn't even

FIRST OF THREE: The fine passing of Colgate quarterback Steve Goeppel was blunted Saturday by three interceptions. Here, linebacker Pete Rioske makes a leaping grab of a pass late in second quarter, his fourth such steal of the season. Tigers then went 43 yards in just three plays for their second touchdown of eventual 34-14 victory.

listed in the Ivy League's preseason booklet. Meier is the versatile type, a character who can both Brown and Colgate found hard to stop as he ran and passed for a total of 224 yards against them. In the process, he completed 37 of his passes, while last week in a 21-0 victory over Lafayette, he was 7 for 14 but only for 65 yards.

Another sophomore, Bob Hoffman, has moved into the starting lineup at fullback, while senior Greg Leavitt pairs with him to do most of the ball carrying. The Quakers are about average size on the line, and are somewhat short of both speed and experience in the defensive secondary, which should make life against Hank Bjorklund and Doug Blake difficult if Princeton blocking is good enough to set them in motion. Penn is 21 on the season, having defeated Lehigh and Lafayette in non-Ivy games and winning from Brown, 17 to 16, while losing 32-31 to Cornell in a game which saw them fail to lead a 31-17 lead. The contest, incidentally, will be played on AstroTurf, marking Princeton's first game on the artificial covering. It is markedly faster than the real thing, and sufficiently different under foot so that the Tigers will work out at Franklin Field Friday afternoon to see what it feels like. The Quakers have a distinct asset in Eliot Berry, a third-year placekicker who can boot field goals from 40 yards out. If the Tigers can do no better than stay within reach, he could make the difference.

COLGATE OVERMATCHED Against Tiger Running Game. It takes a better than average defense to stop running backs Hank Bjorklund and Doug Blake, particularly when quarterback Rod Plummer is having a good day on his own. Colgate's inexperienced squad was accordingly in trouble most of the afternoon, although it took a fumble by the visitors on their own two-yard line to set up Princeton's first TD with less than five minutes remaining in the opening half.

By game's end, Blake had run for 150 yards in 18 carries, a scintillating average of better than 8 yards per carry. Bjorklund had added 111 yards in 19 attempts; and Plummer had contributed a total offense of 140 yards on 13 completions out of 25 for 125 yards plus another on the ground.

utes of the game, which saw the Orange and Black held scoreless despite two penetrations inside the visitor's 10-yard line. The first time, the Tigers were held for downs; the second saw Colgate break up the drive on an end-zone interception.

However, on the very next play, a solid tackle by Joe Parsons, a sophomore playing middle guard, jarred the ball loose and Phil Barbaccia recovered for the Tigers. Two shifts at the line by Brian McCullough and Bjorklund got the TD, but the lead was only 6-0 when Jim Antalf's placement was wide to the left in the gusty wind.

25 years of hard labor for $1780:

This year, everybody's introducing a new economy car.

"Volkswagen-sized."

So not to be outdone, we've done the same.

Except, of course, we didn't have to start from scratch.

For years, while everybody else has been jumping from model to model and worrying about looks, we've stuck with our original and improved the way it works.

And so today, while ours may not look like the newest economy car, it's the most developed.

It's the only one with a sealed steel bottom. To protect its insides against just about everything outside, including time.

The only one with an air-cooled magnesium-alloy engine. To eliminate boiler over and freezing up.

And the only one with a free electronic diagnostic system. To spot problems early and help extend its life.

Best of all, compared to all the new domestic "Volkswagen-priced" cars introduced this year, ours costs about $200 less.

So even if it doesn't look the newest, maybe now it looks the best.

QUICK LOOK AT PENN
OFFENSE: Quakers are primarily a passing team, but lack standard ball carriers. Fomby Meier, latest of numerous quarterbacks, has had his first two seasons, directs team well and Quakers appear stronger on attack this year than last.
DEFENSE: Has a number of capable, experienced players, among eight returning lettermen but lacks overall depth.
CHIEF ASSET: Desire to beat Princeton, which it has done only once in a dozen years. Quakers will play again, and need more skill in effort to win this one.
THE PROBLEM: Lack of up-to-tight personnel, a continuing problem with Penn football in last six years. Quakers are below 400 yards against Ivy competition.
TYPE OF ATTACK: Basic formation, as well as a slot T formation generally, split.

All of that totals 410 yards, paying the way for a team effort of 481 yards and five touchdowns. A punch like that allowed the Tigers to dominate the game despite the fact that Steve Goeppel, the quarterback who will hold every Colgate passing record by the time his career ends next month, was high man on the day with 23 yards. Goeppel completed 16 of 33, did the punting, kicked the extra points and scored a touchdown. A fine passer who needed only better protection and more capable receivers to show his full ability, he seems sure to be drafted by the pros in the ceaseless search for good quarterbacks.

Tigers Start Slowly. Proof that at Princeton is not yet ready to take charge of even ordinary opposition at the outset came in the first 25 min-

ter, the home team scored a gain, following Pete Boyle's interception of a Goepel pass, which he ran back 22 yards to the Colgate 42. This time, the running game sparkled. Blake burst through the middle for 11. Bjorklund swept around right end for 15 and Blake drove down the opposite flank for 17 and the score. Plummer's dash around right end for a two-point conversion sent the Orange and Black off the field at the half ahead by 14 to 8.

Princeton drove 69 yards in nine plays during the early minutes of the third period to raise its margin to 21-8, but Colgate got on the board two plays into the fourth quarter to make it 21-7. An 83-yard march by the Tigers, featuring two passes to split end Pete Hauck mixed with the fine running of Blake and Bjorklund, produced the

With Goepel running or passing on every one of the eight plays that covered 62 yards, Colgate got its second score as the clock began to run out. The victors were good for one more, however, as they marched 48 yards in half a dozen plays, Plummer hitting Hauck in the end zone from 13 yards out. There were just 25 seconds left when the final score was posted.

A pair of sophomores who started their first game on defense appear to have won places on this platoon off their play Saturday. Jay Parsons, last year's freshman captain, made a number of tackles at the middle guard slot. Kevin English was noticeable with his work on pass defense as a corner back and made two interceptions, one in the end zone that halted a Colgate drive just before the half.

With this pair in the lineup, the Tigers are starting a defensive unit composed of four sophomores, four juniors and three seniors. Obviously, they should benefit from game-by-game experience, and will give the team an unusually solid foundation for improved defense a year from now.

First Princeton Alumnus Playing in NHL

Any hockey fan knows who Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield are, but who in the world is Syl Apps?

Syl Apps has a number of things going for him at the moment. He is centering the third line for the New York Rangers and that makes him the first Princeton alumnus to play in the National Hockey League.

Four years ago, he was just beginning to work out for the New York Rangers of the freshman team, Class of 1970. Apps was a forward on a promising group of cutters, and hopes were that he would help with the resurgence in Princeton hockey fortunes that seemed to be on the horizon.

One year was all he spent at Princeton, however, dropping out that summer to transfer to Queens College and later to begin a professional career in his native Canada. He was drafted by the Rangers, and proceeded to give a solid account of himself in their farm system.

This fall, he was among the rookies called up for a shot at a permanent place on the New York roster, and he survived all cuts. Saturday, he centered for the two veterans, Nevin and Hadfield, as he did the following night. The Broadway Blues won both their weekend games, 6-2 over Toronto and 1-0 over Montreal, and Syl

Apps was a welcome factor in each.

His father played for many years as a Toronto Maple Leaf, and is recalled by Bill Quackenbush, varsity hockey coach, as one of the fastest forwards in NHL history. Quackenbush, a standout defenseman who divided his NHL years between the Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruins, played against the senior Apps.

Meanwhile, two other Princeton alumni have made it into the professional ranks in basketball. Big John Hummer is starting for the Buffalo Braves and contributed a total of 17 points in their first two games. Jeff Petrie, with the Portland Trailblazers, had a fine 21-point night as they defeated Cleveland.

PHS and Madison to Meet for Final Time

Princeton High School and Madison Township will meet for the last time on the gridiron Saturday when the Little Tigers will play host to the Spartans in a 2 p.m. contest.

Aside from last year's 35 to 6 loss to Madison, most of the games between the two teams have been closely fought. Two years ago, they met in the final game of the season with identical 4-1 records and the game ended in a 28-28 tie. This week, both will enter the contest with identical 2-1 records.

In its last start, Madison matched Princeton's 14-0 blanking of Cedar Ridge with a shut-out of its own—a 17-0 triumph over New Brunswick. The latter will be Princeton High's opponent next Saturday.

It should be a good game, commented PHS coach Dick Wood. He is hoping for victory because, "It's our last game; we won't play them anymore."

Madison is a member of the Central Jersey League which has been dissolved. Wood explained. It will play other schools with Trenton the last team from this area on its schedule next year. Bridgewater-Raritan West will replace Madison on the PHS schedule, Wood said. An other new comer in 1971, which the Little Tigers have played of before, will be Perth Amboy.

LEADING SCORER: Lawrence Parker, PHS fullback, scored PHS touchdowns in the Little Tigers' 14-0 victory Saturday over Cedar Ridge. Parker's scoring runs of 22 and 34 yards gave him four touchdowns for the year, tops among all Little Tigers.

Parker Scores Twice. It was cold and very windy during the Little Tigers' meeting with Cedar Ridge Saturday and although neither team was strong enough to blow the other off the field, PHS managed to score twice in the second period to win 14-0. Fullback Lawrence Parker scored both TDs on runs of 22 and 34 yards, one off tackle and one a cross-back. The pair gives the hard running Parker four for the season, high for the team.

The shutout was Princeton's first in eight games. It last turned the trick when it scored once in every period to blank the same Cedar Ridge Colts last year, 27-0. One who participated in the defense of last year's PHS was fullback Lou John Rossi who plays both ways. "He ran well but he was better defensively," said Wood. "He's getting better on defense every week."

Despite the wind, sophomore Aidan P. kicked both extra points. Both were perfect.

"On offense we had some beautiful plays that were spoiled by one missed block or poor timing," Wood said. Several PHS fumbles also inhibited an attack.

The game ended in a hectic fashion. With four seconds to go the Cedar Ridge quarterback threw a pass and time ran out as the ball was in the air but PHS was called for defensive interference on the play. Because a game can't end on a penalty, the home team was awarded another play.

On its reprieve play, Cedar Ridge completed a pass in the end zone for an apparent TD. But this time a Gougar was detected for offensive interference and PHS had its shutout.

Starting quarterback John Ediges, who was injured attempting to punt against Trenton, only got in for a couple of plays but Wood said that he would be ready for Madison. His place was taken by Alvin M. Gowan on offense. On defense, Wood shifted Steve Sanford into Hodge's position and moved Kevin Smith into the spot vacated by Sandford. "Both did very well," he said.

MONARCHS, MAIL WIN In Mercer Flag Football, the Monarchs and Mail Taylor remained on top of their respective divisions in the Mercer County Flag Football League with close victories over opponents Sunday.

Led by Chester Woolen and Willie Hill, the Monarchs nipped Ivy Inn, 25-20. Bruce Sandvick threw three touchdowns passes, one to Russ Perone for 35 yards, one to John Miletch for five yards, and one to Tony Rocafusio for 20 yards.

Mail Tavern won 16-12 over Dale's coming from behind late in the fourth quarter on a key pass interception. Perilli's rumbled over Harrison Athletic Club, 30-8, breaking the contest open in the late third and fourth quarters. Behind 12-0, at the half, HAC closed the gap to 12-8 on a George Packard to John Saladin pass and a Packard to Edgar Riddick conversion, but the breaks and their own errors proved costly to the losers.

FOURTH AND ONE: Returning back to the Princeton Day back field, after a week's absence, David Claghorn built his way for a first down on a fourth and one situation against Bryn Athyn Friday. Scoring one touchdown and passing for another, Claghorn sparked the Panthers to a 24-12 victory.

In other games, Center Sports, like the Philadelphia Eagles, is still looking for its first win. It lost Sunday to Joe & Lena's, 28-0. The Excelsior Giants' shutout, Merry Go Round Bar 8-0 to remain a game behind Mall Tavern. Merry Go Round Bar also has yet to win one, but has tied one contest.

PDS TO MEET WARDLAW Seeks Fourth Triumph. With its winning record and confidence growing every week, the Princeton Day football team will return home to take on Wardlaw at 2 p.m. Saturday. Last Friday saw the Blue and White win its third straight ball game, 24-12, against Bryn Athyn.

Wardlaw, the first of two consecutive non-league foes that the Panthers will face, is only 1-3, the reverse of the PDS record. However, coach Don Barren is out to make sure his charges don't go into Saturday's contest overconfident.

The three losses have come at the hands of string schools. Montclair, 41-12, which also whipped PDS, Morristown Prep, 16-6, and Mitchell Prep, 22-0, who PDS plays next week. The Plainfield team boasts a couple of big ends, and has good size all around. PDS will not have it easy, but has to rate as at least a slight favorite.

In the same position last Friday against Bryn Athyn the Panthers had to come from behind twice to chalk up their third Penn-Jersey victory against no defeats. Although it scored more touchdowns than any contest since November 1968, the Panther offense still has not realized its full potential, according to Barren.

Fumbles and penalties hampered the Blue and White's attack throughout much of the first part of the game, and it wasn't until the fourth quarter that PDS was able to move the ball with consistency. In the meantime, the home team, spurred on by a Princeton Day crowd of some 500, had taken advantage of PDS errors to score twice. In the opening period, a fumble of a punt was recovered by Bryn Athyn on the PDS 40. It went over from there, making the score 6-0. A two-point conversion failed.

The Blue and White got this one back in the second quarter on a 70-yard drive, climaxed Claghorn took the ball over from eight yards out. The snap from center was fumbled and the score stood at 6-6 at the half.

In the third period, Bryn Athyn took full measure of

Four Picked Birds in Five

Of the four men who picked Baltimore to win the World Series, when asked by TOWN TOPICS two weeks ago, all of them predicted the Orioles would win it in five—which must set some sort of record for accuracy.

The 12 respondents had to name not only the Series winner but the playoff winners as well. Two of the four, Joe Baldino and John Blackdon, had it right down the line, picking Baltimore to face Cincinnati in the Series. Harry Wyckoff and Dave Britton, both chose Baltimore to win in five, but over Pittsburgh.

Lew Ferrara called the outcome of the series exactly—but he picked the wrong winner. Said he, "I think Cincinnati will get three in a row, let Baltimore win one, and then finish them off."

Like the Reds, Lew will have to wait 'til next year.

another opportunity, when a defensive tackle intercepted a screen pass thrown by Peter McCandless and ran it 29 yards for the score. The run for the extra point again was stopped.

Finally in the fourth period, the Panthers took charge. With Claghorn temporarily out of action, McCandless received a bloody nose and was forced out for one play. Barren inserted Claghorn, the backup quarterback, for the one play and he and Tony Dale combined on a 48-yard pass play good for six points.

PDS went for two points on the conversion, but the pass was knocked down, leaving the score deadlocked at 12-12. Soon after, however, the Panthers got a big break when a Bryn Athyn back fumbled a tremendous punt by Terry Booth, and McCandless recovered inside the 15-yard line. Three plays later McCandless put PDS ahead for the first time scoring on a nine-yard keeper.

Near the end of the game, Bryn Athyn gave up the ball on downs deep in its own territory, and Terry Booth broke off a tackle for a 20-yard touchdown run. The extra point attempt by Booth was wide.

Barren cited the defense play of Paul Funk, Howard Vine, Mitch Sussman and John Kalpin.

FUEL OIL, U STORE WIN. In Senior Midget Football. Scoring the game's only touchdown with 17 seconds to go, Princeton Fuel Oil defeated the Bug and Furniture Mart, 6-0, while University Store edged Nassau Convoy Motors, 13-12, on the foot of Todd McKivvrey's action. Sixty is the senior division of the Mid-get Football League. This Sunday at Community Park, the U Store plays Fuel Oil in the first game, and it's Rug Mart vs. Nassau Motors in the second.

It was a Peter Barnett pass to Billy Gernon that gave Fuel Oil its exciting win. Barnett hit on seven of 10 passes to Gernon, Brad Bierman and Robert Hinrich. Gernon and Eric Ziolkowsky provided most of the rushing.

Defensive standouts for Fuel Oil were Kenneth Bartolino, John Berone, Tom Boyd, Robert Danforth, Edward Frick and David Lion.

The Bug Mart lost its chance for possible victory when it clipping penalty nullified an 80-yard scoring pass from Bobby McPherson to Robert Wood. Ninety-two yards on the ground by Wood and McPherson also went down the drain. Defensively, Paul Kuhn, An-

HUN, PETRONE ROLL OUT
By Alex Hines Here Saturday night's Princeton game was a bit of a surprise. Princeton's defense was up to the task. The Princeton defense was up to the task. The Princeton defense was up to the task.

OVERSHADOWED BY THE brilliant running of Hun's Jack Petrone this season is Hun fullback Mike Guadagno, a line player in his own right. Against Pennington Saturday, he rushed for 99 yards and scored one of Hun's five TDs on a 37-yard run.

straight victim is taking about as much risk as guessing the play after Sunday will be Monday.

So completely has Hun dominated the Penn Jersey League the past few seasons — Pennington was blasted 36-0 Saturday in a typical Hun mauling. But there have been runnings that Hun has outgrown the League and should step up a notch and take on the likes of Peddie and Lawrenceville.

Asked about it, Lete replied, "That's fine to say, but we've built year in and year out. Peddie has a half dozen or so PGs (post graduates who are a year older). It's not really fair. Our kids are all high school age."

"If Hun were to go PG," Lete continued, "we probably would play them. It just so happens the last three or four years we've played good football and we've had some good size. But we're going to lose about all of it this year."

"No, I can't see us stepping out of the league. I don't see how we could play teams like Peddie on an equal basis year after year."

Hun Didn't Disappoint As for Pennington, the visiting Red Raiders knew what was in store for them and Hun didn't disappoint, although the team waited until the final minutes of the first half before it got on the scoreboard. With 1:40 remaining, Rick Ziegler caught a two yard pass from quarterback Alan Chalfoux to cap a 92-yard drive.

The second half was a page from a familiar story: half back Jack Petrone running wild and the Hun defense blunting the enemy offense at every turn. Petrone had scored runs of 26 and 59 yards — his eighth and ninth touchdowns in four games. He rushed for 249 yards.

No. 1 All-American Lete says he doesn't know who holds the individual offensive record for Hun but feels that Petrone, who already has rushed for more than 700 yards, probably owns it right now. By Hun standards, Petrone isn't very big, weighing about 175.

How does it do it? "He has excellent speed and is very shifty," said Lete. Operating behind a crack offensive line fashioned by Hun coach Paul Savidge is another reason for Petrone's success.

When you have a standout like Petrone on a squad, it is inevitable that others are overshadowed. One is fullback Mike Guadagno who rushed for 99 yards against Pennington and who scored one of Hun's five TDs on a 37-yard run.

Split end Mark Taylor scored Hun's other six points on a pretty 63 yard pass play from Chalfoux. "Chalfoux had some good runs, threw two touchdown passes and is doing a good job," said Lete in his praise.

Overall, Hun amassed 422 yards offense, 399 on the ground. For Pennington, which lost its third game in four starts, the only consolation is that a 36-0 loss doesn't hurt as much as the 76 decision dropped the week before at the hands of another Princeton rival, Princeton Day School.

But since the installation of new pins this year, 200 games have been as scarce as a drop in the cost of living index. Jim Shely's 229 was the high game last week. He toils for Staats Electric in the A League.

Jim Case of Griggs & Carter rolled 220 and Al Carter had a 212. In the A League standings, Kialor Barber Shop and Antlers are tied for first at 24-11. Sherwin Williams has 20 and three are tied for third at 18 each.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BORG MARKS 25th YEAR
As Princeton Tailor, Joseph A. Borg of 57 Palmer Square West was told some 25 years ago that custom tailoring was a thing of the past. Today he is New Jersey's top executive tailor.

Born on the island of Malta, where, during the early days of World War II, hunger was a prime part of his young life, he says now, "All I had then was tomorrow... and this is my tomorrow."

He's an artist-craftsman of the old school, whose clients willingly part with $100 for a custom-made suit. "No man, with my garments on, walks on the street with the coat sticking out or one lapel off the shoulder. The collar should be tight at the neck, and I will have no wrinkles at the shoulder blades," he says firmly.

He learned tailoring and cutting in schools in Europe. He knows the classic methods of the London cutters, and as a very young man he custom made uniforms for high officers of the RAF and the Royal Navy. He studied in New York City at the Fashion Academy and the Institute of Technology.

Quality Counts. "It is quality

"I'M FORTUNATE BEING IN PRINCETON," says custom tailor Joseph A. Borg (above, beside his reflection in the mirror). "Princeton is growing, and I am growing with it."

that counts," he says in his energetic way. "You have to be dedicated. There is no fooling around." Picking out a slim bolt of cloth, he adds, "I still use the finest British wools. They keep on making them better and better. Today we pay a good $60 for a piece of cloth."

Joseph Borg started out on Nassau Street. He was sent here by the Custom Tailors Association of America to help another tailor. He soon struck out alone and put in some hard, struggling years. "I have always stood for first class as an artist. I've wanted to create the finest work that I can do. I have worked hard, and I am fortunate being in Princeton. Princeton is growing and I am growing with it."

Eight Years to Learn. Mr. Borg has today's common problem, a need for highly trained help, and they're hard to find. Custom tailoring demands an eight-year apprenticeship. "I look around and say, 'What's going on?' You can't find boys who want to dedicate eight years to learn my business. I feel like an old pair of slacks!"

In addition to his custom tailored garments, Joseph Borg carries a junior executive line, whereby the client gets a basic off-the-rack and the cost is less. "When I see a perfectly fitted garment on my client, that makes me feel good."

"Ready made! People should have some pride! Pride is what keeps you living to day!"

NEW FIRM FORMED HERE

Offers Engineering Services, Arthur T. Brokaw, former Borough engineer, has announced the formation of Brokaw Engineering Associates, Inc., specializing in providing engineering support services in municipal and consulting engineers in the field of sanitary sewer infiltration prevention and control. The new firm has its principal offices at 1101 State Road. During the past year, Mr. Brokaw has served as principal investigator for the Research Foundation of the American Public Works Association of Chicago on a federal and municipal project concerning control of extraneous water infiltration into the nation's sewer systems. BEA will provide a team effort to control infiltration or leaking sewers and inflow, generally illegal connections, which are pirating tremendous percentages of sewer capacity.

Marilyn Silvester and Mella Croser spilled the most pins in the Business Women's League with 177 and 175 and 167. Mella's 175 was 38 pins over her average.

Dot Thersell had 173. Dot Wheeler 121. In the 160's were Marilyn Wilson, Peg Ranaula, Maggie Schmidt, Sara Rose and Betty Kleiber. Mary Bartolino of Bucci Builders rolled a 155-36 pins over her average.

Rocky Hill Inn still has the lead with 30 points. Balerieri (26) and Ivy Inn and Bucci (22 each) follow.

SCORES CLEAN SWEEP
On Lake Carnegie. Bub Holzman made a clean sweep in the Sunfish racing on Lake Carnegie Sunday, winning all five races. Dan Mazzarella was second and Walt Gibson, third.

In shops, Tom Huntington, skipper, and Helen Sheehan, crew, won first place, 54 and Nancy Metcalf, skipper and crew, captured first place in the Penguins.

In Saturday's Town-Hound Bowl Regatta, winds gusting to 23 knots provided unusually difficult conditions for 23 entries, and only nine of the boats were still in competition at the finish. Some experienced broke in equipment, a few capsize. Cliff Campbell of Toms River, former national champion, was the victor with 94.8 points, winning all four races. Bart Huchel of the Carnegie Club received the trophy for the top performance among home fleet entries.

MEETING SCHEDULED
For YMCA Basketball. The formative meeting for the YMCA Basketball and Industrial Basketball League will be held at the YMCA offices on Avalon Place on Monday, October 26 at 7:30 p.m.

John Springer, League co-ordinator, will conduct the meeting. Companies desiring to participate in the League are invited to send a representative to the meeting.

KEN SMITH TRIUMPHS
In West Windsor Tennis. Ken Smith defeated last year's champion Bert Midland, 6-1, 6-0, Sunday and captured the 1970 men's singles tennis title in the annual fall tournament sponsored by the West Windsor Recreation Department.

Smith had advanced to the finals with another easy victory, 6-0, 6-1, over Sam Shuren. Midland overcame Percy Banks, 6-4, 6-3, to gain the final round. Smith had already won the men's doubles with Pete Barth.

The Adam family flourished prominently in the other matches. Bill Adam, already the boys' 1970 singles champion, took home two more trophies, teaming with his father Bob to take the father-son title, and with Kevin Little to win the boys' doubles.

In the father-son match, the Adams outlasted Bob and Kevin Little in a tight 6-4, 7-5 match. Adam and Little overcame Dave Fry and Tim Nugent 6-4, 6-3, in the boys' doubles.

The last of the eight annual events, the mixed doubles, will be held this weekend, with the field set for 4 p.m. The trophy ceremony for first and second place finishers in all eight events will be held at 5 p.m.

CHAUNER IS VICTOR
In Open Hillclimb at Skillman.

Mrs. Whelan Wins Title

Mrs. James Whelan of the Springdale Golf Club won the first New Jersey senior women's amateur state championship this week on the Hollywood course at Deal.

Mrs. Whelan held a three-stroke lead after the first 18 holes when she carded a 43-42-85. Two more 43s on Tuesday gave her a 36-hole total of 171 and a two-stroke margin over the runner-up, Mrs. Marge Vason of Ridgewood.

Century Board Club's open hillclimb at Skillman Sunday ended in victory for Dave Chauner of the host club. His time was 53.2—three seconds off the hill record he set last year.

Forty-five riders from five states competed for 12 prizes in three classes. Chauner and Harold Halsey of Century RC were first and third in the senior class. Community Park School twins Chuck and Leigh Gochring were first and third in the 15 and under class, and 60-year-old John Phillips made a clean sweep for Century when he captured the "Sailing Trophy" for the fastest veteran in the race.

Headquarters for the Century Road Club of America is located at 141 John Street, Princeton. It was established in 1891.

HILTON WINS BIG

In Midget Football. Hilton Realty's machine-like offense rolled to a 38-12 victory over Peterson Construction, following a scoreless tie between First National Bank and J. P. Cleaver last Saturday as the Princeton Midget Football League's Junior Division made its 1970 debut at the Community Park.

The victory left Hilton alone in first place in the five team PNFL which also includes the Shison and Co. eleven this season.

Peterson jumped into a 6-0 lead over Hilton when Hawley and Waterman recovered a Hilton fumble in the end zone. However, on its next series, Hilton drove 40 yards, with Jimmy Heffernan covering the final four for the tying touchdown. Gary Colburn intercepted a pass at the Peterson four.

On first down, quarterback Kevin Streeter dashed around left end for the lead touchdown.

It was the first of three touchdowns by Streeter, who also scored on runs of 38 and 73 yards. Kevin gained 183 yards on eight carries. 20 terms were Peterson's top yards more than he had on 29 attempts last season when he led the second best rusher in the league.

Robert Willis' 21 yard scoring dash on a reverse opened Hilton's advantage to 18-6. But Peterson cut its deficit to 18-12 when Mike Fuschini, who rushed for 89 yards on five carries during the game, romped around left end for 66 yards and a touchdown. Streeter then put the game out of reach for Hilton with his pair of long TD runs.

Willis rushed for 31 yards, while Heffernan had 10 and Tod Miller, Jimmy McCarthy and Colicchia combined for 15 for Hilton. Sparking the defense for the winners were Willis, Colicchia, Ted Watts, Bobby Baumer and Eddie Gibson, who recovered a fumble.

Contributing to the Peterson attack were Chris Burchfield, Luther McKeel, David Wilson, Kim Beasley and Tony Lemar. Cory Easter, with five tackles, and Chris Morris, Mike Shannon, Bill Delano and Warden were Peterson's top defenders.

In sharp contrast to the wide open second game, the 0-0 tie between First National and front runner, Cranbury, for 1969 champion J. P. Cleaver was a battle of strong defenses.

Each team had an interception—Rod Brady for First National and Bill Schmuckcamp for Cleaver. Stanton Brooks' 11 tackles and five by Ted Huntington were tops for Cleaver. Outstanding on defense for First National Bank were Andy Atkin, Robert Campbell, Robert McAvonia, Pace Irby, Tommy Ferguson and Jack Budd.

Cleaver's John Arrington gained 54 yards on five rushing attempts, while Henning added seven yards and Mike Bolster four.

Howie Brooks was the leading rusher for First National Bank, with 28 yards on 15 carries. John Krystaponis added nine yards.

DINER PULLS AWAY
In Bowling League. The "race" in the Princeton women's Bowling League is fast becoming a cakewalk for Swift's Colonial Diner No. 2. In second place a few weeks ago, the Diner has opened up a 38-28 lead over Use Car Mart, the former front runner. Cranbury Bowling Club, which had taken second place, while Hamilton Supply Co. and Swift's Colonial Diner No. 1 were in third and fourth place.

To My Princeton Township Neighbors—

I welcome the opportunity to write this letter to thank you for the confidence you have expressed in electing me to public office in Princeton Township on five occasions over the past sixteen years. My service on the Board of Education and the Township Committee has always been a pleasure, and I find my appreciation for this growing ever deeper as that service draws toward a close.

I wholeheartedly endorse Charles E. Meyer for election to the chair on the Township Committee that I have held for the last nine years. During the past year, I have come to know Charles Meyer very well, and my respect for him and my conviction as to his unusual suitability for membership on our community's governing body continue to grow stronger every day. He will bring a new energy, a fresh and constructive viewpoint and a remarkable responsiveness to human needs and problems to the work of the committee. He will be extremely well prepared for the job. I have never known a candidate for the Committee to work as hard and dig as deep into the past records, and our present and future problems as Charles Meyer has done. "Doing your homework" is one of the most trying obligations of Township Committee service. Charles Meyer has already demonstrated his utmost willingness and ability to do just this.

He combines comparative youth with true maturity, the latter being amply illustrated by his successful business career with one of our most distinguished and demanding corporations, Princeton Township and the Township Committee need and will always need all the business ability and experience they can possibly command. Charlie Meyer will make a great personal contribution to this.

I also endorse Charlie Meyer because his election is necessary to preserve the present 3-to-2 Republican majority on the Township Committee and thus assure the re-election of John D. Wallace as our Mayor for the third year. I do not need to review or describe Jack Wallace's qualifications and record as our municipality's leader. The community knows they have been outstanding. We can't afford to lose such a constructive and masterful hand at the helm of our civic affairs is a question mark a successor who is unidentifiable at this time and who will be completely untried as our Mayor.

The election of Charlie Meyer as Township Committeeman on November third and the resulting re-election of Jack Wallace as Mayor on next January first are essential to our community's well-being and progress. They are offered to you, standing four-square on the Republican Party's past record of governing Princeton Township progressively, openly, sensibly, efficiently and economically.

TO UNDERTAKE SATURDAY
 Of Trash Disposal, Borough Council and Township Committee have met privately with the Sewer Operating Committee to discuss ways to implement improvement in Princeton's sewerage and landfill problems.

Foster Jacobs, chairman of the SOC, said that an engineering firm will be recommended by the Sewer Operating Committee, to determine the scope of the study. Two firms have already submitted estimates. There will be interest next week, Mr. Jacobs said.

He indicated that if nothing untoward develops, the University, Borough and Township, which comprise SOC, may put up the necessary funds for the study before the end of the year.

Also needed is a study of water infiltration by illegal hookups and rain water seeping into old sewers into new sewerage collector lines. Councilman James Andrews warned Council last week that Princeton would not be admitted to any regional sewage disposal system without getting rid of its illegal water.

Costs of the new Stony Brook regional sewage plant will be assessed against participating communities on the basis of time, Mr. Andrews reported that illegal water in a system could push up costs to a community as high as 50%.

Sewerage Again. Meanwhile, the Borough is perhaps within a day of finding out a definite answer to a long time problem: will the sewerage on the incinerator that have not eliminated fly ash as promised since their installation in 1968 ever work properly?

Am an Standard, which signed the guarantee that the SOC could work and has kept Princeton from violating its standards, was a Princeton Tuesday testing them.

As it is expected this week. We expect a definite answer. Yes, we can solve your problem, or no, we can't, said Mayor Robert Castel Tuesday.

Solving the solid waste disposal problem and determining how useful Princeton's landfill is should have first priority, the SOC agreed.

On Campaign Trail, Jay Bleiman, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, took note this week of his opponent's campaign statements that, in order to keep John D. Wallace as mayor of the Township, a Republican must be elected to maintain the Republican majority on Committee.

If Mr. Bleiman is elected, there would be three Democrats, James A. Floyd, Thomas Hartmann and Mr. Bleiman in the Township. The "mayor" is not elected separately as he is in the Borough, but is chosen by Committee members from their own number.

"If the Democrats are in the majority, then traditionally, one of the Democratic Committees would be elected chairman," Mr. Bleiman said. "I don't know who that would be, we're concentrating all our energies on being elected, and the one is running for mayor. The mayor is only chairman of the Committee, chosen to be spokesman for Committee and the community."

children are frightened to go to school for fear they may not have the courage to resist the temptation to experiment with drugs. Their property is stolen and they become involved in violence.

It is true the jurisdiction of the Board is very limited and they have few statutory powers to cope with such problems. But the Board is the seat of county-wide political power and by means of what patronage it can disperse, it does exert power in a county wide level and the party that controls the Board can exert influence out of all proportion to the direct powers of the board to act in given circumstances.

The sad stories of Newark and Essex County and Jersey City and Hudson County should be all any of us should need to be reminded that it is disastrous to keep one party in power too long in any one place. It is essential that the old ties be broken and that old lines of influence be broken. Our vote is all we have to prove to ourselves and let us use it collectively and in ways where it will do the most good. I will continue to support Frank Thompson and Harrison Williams because of their very fine records and I look forward to voting for Jay Bleiman for Princeton Township Committee.

I have met the three Republican candidates for the Board of Freeholders and am happy to support them as individuals as well as on account of the general principles about which I have written.

GALLUP HAS NEW PLAN

For Gauging Public Opinion. In celebration of its 35th anniversary marked this past Tuesday, the Gallup Poll has unveiled a new procedure for measuring public opinion, designed to complement, but not replace the cross-section system it has employed for more than three decades.

The new system, called public opinion referendum, is based upon a careful selection of areas which, on the basis of past and present data, accurately reflect the views of the nation. In the sample survey system, relatively few persons are selected throughout the nation, whereas the referendum system relies for its accuracy upon the mass coverage of small election units.

Four counties have been selected, each an accurate indicator of its own area in the East, Midwest, South and West. Within these counties election districts have been selected. Continued on Next Page.

The Princeton Unit is one of 21 from coast to coast, with headquarters in New York. Princeton ranks high nationally in quantity and quality of production. During 1969 its more than 200 volunteers from the Princeton Trenton area logged 15,300 hours. They find the work pleasant and interesting as well as useful.

They may spend anywhere from two hours up, on any one or more days per week, according to their convenience. Schedules are flexible. Reading volunteers work in teams of two: a reader and a monitor, who often exchange roles after an hour.

National headquarters are asking for a 15 percent increase in production, owing to the growing demand for books. This means that more volunteers are needed. Applicants will be welcome for reading, monitoring, editing and other services.

WOOD YOU BELIEVE!

Maybe we didn't spell it right, but we sure made it right. And right smack where it belongs — in the woods. This fantastic contemporary simply defies description. Strictly one of a kind, and incomparable from the word go. Zigzag roof lines, exposed beamed ceilings, thermopane glass walls — the works. And functional as can be, with a large living room, and marble fireplace faced with brick travertine, dining room, very special and spacious kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, study, game room, basement, 2 car garage. With all sorts of special features, such as cork floors, built-in bar, self cleaning oven, outside redwood deck — to mention only a few. In a picture-like setting in Princeton's Riverside, overlooking Lake Carnegie. $99,000
